SERBIANS NOW FALLING BACK

Finally Give Way After Strong Resistance to Teutonic Forces.

SEVERE FIGHTING
PROCEEDS IN WEST

Allied Troops Join Serbs in Rapid Thrust at Bulgaria.

Today's War News Given in Summary

While Bulgarian and Serbo-French forces are clashing for possession of the Saloniki-Nish railroad in southern Serbia the Austro-German invaders are continuing their advance from the north. Berlin today reported further progress for the Teutonic armies south of Belgrade and in the Pozarevac region.

In the Macva district on the Save-Drina front where the Serbians have apparently barely budged since the beginning of the invasion they are now beginning to give way, Berlin heights.

The Bulgarians pressing from the east to form a junction with the Teutonic forces coming from the north have captured additional heights.

A rapid thrust at Bulgaria by allied troops in conjunction with Serb forces has resulted in the capture of the Bulgarian town of Strumitsa, 50 miles northwest of Saloniki, according to Athens advices.

Hard fighting has been in progress in the western front. Berlin chronicles the repulse of repeated attacks by the British with strong forces in the vicinity of Verdun and the breaking up of French advances at Tabbure in the Champagne.

Defeat for the French in attempts to retake lost positions south of Leintry and of the Schtrassmannel in the Vosges is also reported by the German war office.

In the official report from Paris the only infantry clash of moment noted was in the neighborhood of Souchez where it is declared three German attacks against positions at Boise-en-Hache were completely checked. German airmen dropped eight bombs on the French fortress of Belfort, Berlin announces, the aviators noting that a number of fires followed the explosions.

In Russia Field Marshal von Hindenburg reports good progress in his attacks of Riga. Russian attacks west of Jacobstadt and in the Smolensk region were repulsed, while the Germans claim to have captured Russian positions in a front nearly two miles west of Iloukst.

Berlin, Oct. 18.—The Serbian forces in the Macva district of the Save-Drina front in northwestern Serbia, where strong resistance has been offered to the Teutonic invaders, are now beginning to retreat, it was officially announced today by German army headquarters.

The Teutonic advance south of Belgrade continues, and progress is also being made in the Pozarevac sector. Additional successes also are reported for the Bulgarians on the eastern border of Serbia.

In recording the progress of operations in the Balkan theatre of war today's announcement says: "In the Macva district the enemy is beginning to retreat. Our troops are advancing south of Belgrade against Ovakove Grob and the village of Vroin. Southeast of Pozarevac we took Cernae and Rosevac.

"The Bulgarians have occupied the heights of Mulheim and Badin Zueb.

GERMAN ATTACK REPULSED.

French Beat Back Three Assaults, Says Paris Report.

Paris, Oct. 18.—French forces repulsed completely last night three German attacks, according to the announcement given out this afternoon by the French war office. These took place at Boise-en-Hache, to the northeast of Souchez.

The text of the communication follows: "Three attacks on the part of the enemy against our positions at Boise-en-Hache, to the northeast of Souchez, were completely checked last night by curtains of fire in which both artillery and infantry participated.

"To the south of the river Somme, in the sector of Lihons, there has been almost continual fighting with trench warfare, while in the meantime our batteries directed an effective fire against German works.

North of Verdun German forces favored to occupy the mines recently captured. They have been very spirited.

STRIKE COSTLY TO BOTH SIDES

Little Hope of Settlement
at End of the Third Week.

FIGHT TO FINISH
IS TO BE WAGED

New Men Have Been Assigned Regular Runs,
Says Greenland.

Three weeks ago Monday morning the car men refused to go to work following the refusal of General Manager Sam W. Greenland to sign a new agreement recognizing the newly organized union, providing for local arbitration of all grievances and a hearing within twenty-four hours after a man had been laid off for an alleged offense. Since then the traction company has employed new trainmen and after a few days' interruption in the service succeeded in restoring approximately normal service, which is now being maintained on all lines.

The cost of the strike has been enormous to both the 150 car men and other unions that are lending them financial aid and to the traction company, in the way of loss of revenues and extra expense in employing new men and for police protection.

In the meantime hundreds of jitneys have been put into service, many accidents have occurred and business in general has been affected. Notwithstanding, the end is not in sight.

"We will continue this fight to tomorrow, if necessary," declared Joseph C. Colgan, of the Amalgamated Association.

DISGRACE TO STATE, DECLARES GOV. DUNNE

Springfield, Ill., Oct. 18.—The hanging of the negro, Joe De Berry, at Murphysboro Saturday, when more than 1,000 persons admitted as deputies were permitted to witness, was referred to as a "scandal and disgrace to the state" by Governor Dunne today, according to Sheriff James A. White, of Jackson county, who has charge of the execution. In his message to the governor asked that the hanging of Elston Scott, a negro, set for next Friday in Jackson county, be conducted with "decorum, decency and privacy."

De Berry was hanged for the murder of a white woman. Scott is to die for the killing of his sister-in-law.

WOMAN OF MYSTERY IS PLACED ON TRIAL

New York, Oct. 18.—Mrs. Zora Emma Howe, known as the "woman of mystery" was placed on trial today in General Sessions on indictments charging her with grand larceny in having obtained money by posing as the widow of Henry M. Flagler, a former president of the Standard Oil company.

Mrs. Howe is alleged to have obtained $4,435 from Frank J. Mahoney by claiming that she would receive $15,000,000 when the Flagler estate was settled. She appeared calm and confident in court. Subsequent to her arrest three months ago the district attorney's office received communication from police at Chicago, Washington and Pittsburg saying a woman had swindled persons in those cities through posing as the widow of Henry M. Flagler.

DELAY IS REFUSED IN CHARLTON CASE

Italian Judge Proceeds to Question American Prisoner.

Como, Italy, Oct. 18.—When Porter Charlton, the American charged with the murder of his wife was called today Signor Catano asked for a further postponement to give M. Picardi, Charlton's chief counsel, who is indisposed, further time to study the case. Baron Sciacca, the presiding judge, reserved decision on the motion and began trial in parts of the case wherein a defense is not necessary.

Baron Sciacca later rendered a decision refusing consent to a postponement of the trial, saying that he considered the presence of Signor Calaneo, of Charlton's counsel, sufficient to protect the interests of the accused. The court thereupon proceeded to interrogate Charlton. The prisoner spoke for about an hour, giving a complete account of his life from the time he met Mary Scott, whom he married and of whose murder he is accused up to the time the crime was committed. Charlton spoke in Italian but owing to the proper words with which to express himself the court frequently helped him out.

Charlton was attacked with a fainting fit during the progress of the interrogation and was obliged to retire from the court room. When he returned Baron Sciacca continued the inquiry. The public is being excluded from the court room because of the nature of the testimony.

BONDS OF ALLEGED ROBBERS FORFEITED

Accused Men Fail to Appear When Case is Called at Terre Haute.

Terre Haute, Ind., Oct. 18.—The cases against Max Hamburg, Dennis J. Murphy, George Burge and Henry Lane, the Plaza hotel pool room robbers, were set for trial in the Vigo circuit court today but the men were not present. Default was entered in the cases of Hamburg, Burge and Lane and their bonds of $1,000 each were declared to be forfeited.

Affidavits were presented from the health and police authorities of Toledo, Ohio, showing that Dennis J. Murphy, whose real name was Charles A. Bruton, had died of appendicitis in a Toledo hospital August 1, but aside from making an entry to this effect on the record no action was taken in the Murphy case. The men were captured by the Indianapolis police as they neared that city in an automobile Oct. 22, 1914.

STATE DEPARTMENT NOT LIKELY TO ACT

Affidavits Filed by German Embassy Do Not Differ
from Many Others.

Washington, Oct. 18.—The state department does not contemplate any action on the affidavits filed by the German embassy charging that marines and sailors of the British patrol boat Baralong killed the commander of a German submarine.

Officials pointed out today that the case did not differ from many others filed by belligerent governments charging violations of military law and atrocities. The American government has merely filed all such protests.

Officials foresee, however, that if such incidents became a general practice they might possibly affect the submarine controversy between the United States and Germany. They fear that if British ships generally attack German submarines, interfering with the attempts of the latter to visit and search, the submarines might resume their practice of torpedoing without warning.

The use of the American flag by the British patrol boat is regarded as a ruse in keeping with the naval practice of previous wars, and used by the United States as well as other nations. The only requirement is that a war vessel must show its true colors before opening fire.

BODY IS BROUGHT HERE FOR BURIAL

The remains of Daniel Tresslar, who died at Decatur, Illinois, from injuries sustained in the Washab shops of that city, arrived in Fort Wayne at 4 o'clock Monday morning and were taken to the home of his mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Tresslar, 326 West Williams street.

Funeral services Tuesday morning at 9:30 o'clock from the residence and at 10 o'clock at St. Patrick's Catholic church. Interment at the Catholic cemetery.

Word was received Sunday evening that he had passed away at 1:30 o'clock Sunday afternoon. Mr. Tresslar was 27 years of age and was employed as a blacksmith in the railroad shops at Decatur. Thursday he was seriously injured when a piece of iron, seventh-eighths of an inch thick driven by a steam hammer pierced his abdomen. The iron passed entirely through his body.

The young man was born in Chicago and came to Fort Wayne with his mother when he was very young. After graduating from the St. Patrick's school, he became an apprentice in the local Washab blacksmith shop. He completed his trade and two years ago was transferred to Decatur.

The deceased was a member of St. Patrick's Catholic church, the Knights Columbus, Moose and Macabones lodges and of the Blacksmiths' union. Besides the mother he is survived by four brothers and one sister—Carroll J. and William Tresslar, of Chicago; Frank Tresslar, of this city; Mrs. Mayme Lindell, of Chicago, and John Tresslar, of Seattle, Wash.

Mr. Tresslar had been cleverly questioned by Chief Lenz, but she had little information to give. Her mother, Mrs. Rebecca Youse, and other relatives arrived at headquarters soon after the

WILSON WILL URGE DEFENSE IN SPEECH

Washington, Oct. 18.—President Wilson will open his campaign for his national defense program in a speech before the Manhattan club in New York on the evening of November 4.

It will be the president's first public utterance on the subject since he approved the plans prepared by Secretary Garrison Daniels, and the speech is expected to be of significance because the reasons he is expected to disclose why the United States should be more adequately prepared for defense.

Today the president received a letter from a peace delegation for national defense asking him to take steps to assure the United States against attack from abroad. The letter was signed by Gov. Goldborough, Walter Smith, Representative Coady, Nathaniel and Talbot, and many business men, bankers, lawyers, judges and others.

Charleston, S. C., Oct. 18.—Companies of state militia still were on guard today while civil officers began their investigation of the shooting last Friday in the room of the city democratic executive committee. Soldiers guarded the building where Corner Matfield Sidney J. Cohen, a newspaper reporter, shot during the fight. Soldiers also were on guard at a state court for the habeas corpus proceedings in behalf of Edward J. McDonald and Henry J. Brown, charged respectively with murder and with conspiracy to commit murder, assault and battery with intent to kill. Every man present at the inquest and habeas corpus hearing was searched for weapons.

WARREN IS PUT UNDER ARREST

Fraudulent Check Charge
Confronts Man Center of Sensation.

IS BROUGHT FROM VALPARAISO HERE

Located With His Bride by Pennsylvania Railroad
Detective.

Charles Luther Warren, possessor of visionary millions and founder of checks, whose operations in Fort Wayne and his elopement and marriage with Miss Beulah Youse, daughter of Mrs. Rebecca Youse, 250 West Main street, have been a sensation in Fort Wayne for five days, was arrested at police headquarters here at 2 o'clock Monday afternoon, charged with uttering a fraudulent check.

A short time later a warrant was read to him and he was placed in a cell at headquarters.

Warren and his bride were taken into custody at 9 o'clock Monday morning in Valparaiso, Ind., by James A. Jones, a special officer of the Pennsylvania railroad, who recognized this pair at the Pennsylvania depot in that city. They arrived in Fort Wayne in charge of Officer Jones at 12:25 Monday afternoon, were taken to police headquarters and turned over to Chief Lenz.

Says He Will Make Good.

"If I have done anything that was not right here I will make it good," said Warren, after his arrest. "I don't know of anything I have done, but if they have anything on me I will make it right and clear it up."

To questions, Warren returned sometimes frank questions and sometimes evasive or light-minded replies. He was extremely nervous and his hands shook as with palsy as he lighted and manipulated a small "bullhog" pipe that he asked Chief of Police Lenz to return to him.

"I am able to pay anything I owe or have contracted to pay, here or anywhere," Warren said in answer to several questions that referred to details of his operations in this city and Chicago, and then to a group of newspaper men he stated:

"You can ask all the questions you want to, but I won't talk any more, because I haven't anything to say."

"I'm His Wife; I'll Stick to Him."

"I'm his wife and I'll stick to him until I know a reason why I should not," said Beulah Youse Warren, the 29-year-old bride of the man who had just been arrested and taken from her side.

Mrs. Youse-Warren had been cleverly questioned by Chief Lenz, but she had little information to give. Her mother, Mrs. Rebecca Youse, and other relatives arrived at headquarters soon after the trial. Some of the men indicted have not yet been arrested, a few are fugitives from justice and others successfully have resisted extradition from their native states.

Of seven officers in the government revenue service who are among the defendants two of them, Knox Booth, of Nashville, Tenn., and James Surber, of Atlanta, Ga., will not be tried until the January term of the court, their trials having been postponed.

Thomas G. McCoy, of Asheville, N. C., a former revenue agent, upon his arrest, instituted proceedings to restrain his extradition to Arkansas and the court upheld his contention. Nearly all the men arrested have been released under bond. John L. Casper, of Kansas City, an officer of a distilling company and known as the head of the alleged "Moonshine" organization, gave bond in the sum of $35,000. Guy L. Hartman, of Kansas City, former business partner of Casper, forfeited a bond of $20,000 by failure to appear for his preliminary trial. James C. Breakey, also of Kansas City and formerly connected with the distilling company, is under indictment but has not been arrested. The alleged conspirators are said by government officials to have defrauded the government of millions of dollars. Specifically it is charged that the men illegally operated a distillery in Fort Smith and instead of sending the product to a government warehouse, shipped it to Kansas City. There, it is charged, the contents of the whisky were fraudulently stamped with old revenue stamps, thus allowing the distillers to avoid the payment of taxes.

When the case was called today the court granted the motion of the defendants for continuance until tomorrow.

But Result of War Game Awaits Decision of Umpire.

New London, Conn., Oct. 18.—An attack by a "hostile fleet" on the forts at the entrance to Long Island Sound, which, as a part of the army and navy maneuvers, began late yesterday, was expected to end today. Whether the attacking fleet of destroyers, mine planters and sub-mine planters succeeded in running the forts and landing troops, or were sunk by the defending forts, will not be known, however, until the umpires make their report. Throughout the night, while the great searchlights swept the waters of the "enemy," the big guns at the forts replied vigorously to the bombardment of the attacking force.

NEWS OF FORT WAYNE'S NEIGHBORS

FORMER ALLEN CITIZEN DIES.

Auburn, Ind., Oct. 18.—J. H. Myers, of Midway street, who has been a sufferer for the past four years as a result of a paralytic stroke, passed away at his late home here. He was born in Lehigh county, Pa., February 11, 1839, and was a son of Nathan and Leah Myers. When but a small child he moved with his parents to Seneca county, Ohio, and lived there until he was in his teens, when he came to Indiana where he has resided ever since. He first lived in Allen county, but had resided in DeKalb county for the past thirty-five years. April 3, 1864, he was married to Margaret Barrett in Percy township, Allen county. There were three children born to this union, one William Myers, who is still living. He resides on a farm near Huntertown. The first wife died February 6, 1874. On December 26, 1880, Mr. Myers was again married, this time to Mary A. Harkey, of Auburn, who still survives him.

MONTPELIER STUDENTS ORGANIZE

Montpelier, Ind., Oct. 18.—At a meeting of the high school students, a literary society for the school was formed. The following officers were elected: Oscar Rogers, president; Lawrence Andrews, vice-president; Babel Harry, secretary; Margaret O'Donnell, treasurer. The society will hold business meetings every two weeks on Fridays after school session and on Friday evenings will have an entertainment. The first entertainment was held Friday evening in the high school building. A musical and reading program was given after which refreshments were served.

BLUFFTON BAPTIST HONORED.

Bluffton, Ind., Oct. 18.—William R. Barr, one of the prominent members of the First Baptist church of this city, has been honored by election to membership on the executive committee of the Indiana Baptist convention, which met this week at Hammond. Rev. O. R. McKay, pastor of the local church, was chosen president of the convention and the election of still another representative from the Bluffton church to an official position in the convention is quite a recognition for the Bluffton congregation.

WOMAN GOES FREE.

Portland, Ind., Oct. 18.—A charge of assault and battery filed against Sylvia Cole, of Muncie, in the court of "Squire Lewis here was dismissed Saturday morning without trial. Minnie McKinley Reichart, formerly of Newcastle, caused the arrest of the Muncie woman. It developed that when Mrs. Cole came here to attend the funeral services of an uncle, she found the Reichart woman installed in her parents' home against the wish of her aged mother. She evicted her and the suit in court followed.

ONION CROP IS ROTTING.

Kendallville, Ind., Oct. 18.—Local onion growers and commission men, who are purchasing the vegetables and storing them, are encountering heavy financial losses as a result of the onion becoming putrid. In many instances the grower has been compelled to throw away practically two-thirds of his crop and some growers have declared they were obliged to throw out from 5,000 to 6,000 bushels. The Ohio onion crop was very short this year and in other localities reports have been received that there was a short crop. The demand for onions has been quite good and the price is high.

HOG CHOLERA NEAR ETNA.

Columbia City, Ind., Oct. 18.—A considerable amount of hog cholera is reported around Etna and it is said that east of Etna there is quite a lot of it. Hundreds of hogs are being vaccinated as a precaution against the disease and numerous farmers, whose herds have thus far escaped, are holding their breath, lest it break out on their farms. The germs are fearfully contagious and may be carried for miles on the sole of a shoe, a horse's feet, by dogs or birds, so it is about the next thing to impossible to entirely safeguard against it.

German Farmers Will Continue to Feed Country Without Aid.

Berlin, Oct. 5.—(Correspondence of The Associated Press).—German farmers will continue to feed the country without the aid of oversea imports, in the opinion of Prof. Gerlach, an authority in agricultural chemistry. Speaking before the German agricultural society at its yearly meeting at Berlin, he gave details showing to what extent in 1914 and 1915 the yield of crops was increased by using sulphate of ammonia and cyanamide, a combination of atmospheric nitrogen with calcium, as fertilizers. In these fertilizers, he says, German farmers have a fully satisfactory substitute for the nitrate of soda which they have been importing to the amount of about 800,000 tons a year. Prof. Gerlach regards the new industry of extracting nitrogen from the atmosphere as of great promise for the future of the German food supply. He said that the factories for its recovery, mostly begun since the outbreak of the war, are now finished or nearing completion, and that they are all in operation. They will produce yearly an equivalent of 120,000 tons of pure nitrogen or already considerably more than half of what was formerly imported. A considerable proportion of this is now being used by the military authorities for making ammunition but will, after the war, be available for fertilizing purposes.

Pending the increase of the output till all kinds of crops can be fertilized with cyanamide. Prof. Gerlach advised that it be used mainly for increasing the grain yield; potatoes the largest crop produced in Germany—can do very well without a fertilizer, as is proved by the splendid crop of this year.

The same situation prevails at South Bend and practically every employment office in the state, indicating that labor conditions are improving.

SOUTH BEND PLANS BIG CELEBRATION

State Centennial and City
Semi-Centennial to Be Duly Recognized.

South Bend, Oct. 18.—Plans for St. Joseph county's celebration of the 100th anniversary of Indiana to the statehood and of the 50th anniversary of the incorporation of South Bend as a city, are progressing satisfactorily, according to F. A. Miller, editor of the South Bend Tribune, who is serving as director of the dual celebration on authority vested in him by the South Bend Chamber of Commerce.

"It is too early to announce definite plans," said Mr. Miller, "for the reason that our ideas have not yet been crystallized sufficiently to be given out. However, two features have been decided. One of these, and it probably will be the big feature of the celebration, will be a pageant depicting the history of this section. The present plan is to put this on at least two evenings in Springbrook park. I have selected the pageant master F. B. Barnes, municipal recreation director, and he is studying with a view to presenting to the people something out of the ordinary and something instructive. Beyond doubt it will be worth going many miles to see.

"The other feature decided upon is a baby parade. This, of course, is in a lighter vein, so to speak, and will be one of several parades to be given during the celebration. Miss Ella Learn has been appointed director of this event. She will have as her assistants some of the best known ladies of the city. It is hoped to have not less than 100 children up to seven years of age entered.

"The date for the great dual celebration has not been fixed, but it probably will be the latter part of May or the early part of June. Other features than those mentioned are planned, but are not ready for announcement. I think it safe to state that St. Joseph county's celebration will be the best in Indiana."

Exodus 18:1-12.

1 When Jethro, the priest of Midian, Moses' father in law, heard of all that God had done for Moses, and for Israel his people, and that the Lord had brought Israel out of Egypt;

2 Then Jethro, Moses' father in law, took Zipporah, Moses' wife, after he had sent her back,

3 And her two sons; of which the name of one was Gershom; for he said, I have been an alien in a strange land:

4 And the name of the other was Eliezer; for the God of my father, said he, was mine help, and delivered me from the sword of Pharaoh:

5 And Jethro, Moses' father in law, came with his sons and his wife unto Moses into the wilderness, where he encamped at the mount of God:

6 And he said unto Moses, I thy father in law Jethro am come unto thee, and thy wife, and her two sons with her.

7 And Moses went out to meet his father in law, and did obeisance, and kissed him; and they asked each other of their welfare; and they came into the tent.

8 And Moses told his father in law all that the Lord had done unto Pharaoh and to the Egyptians for Israel's sake, and all the travail that had come upon them by the way, and how the Lord delivered them.

9 And Jethro rejoiced for all the goodness which the Lord had done to Israel, whom he had delivered out of the hand of the Egyptians.

10 And Jethro said, Blessed be the Lord, who hath delivered you out of the hand of the Egyptians, and out of the hand of Pharaoh, who hath delivered the people from under the hand of the Egyptians.

11 Now I know that the Lord is greater than all gods: for in the thing wherein they dealt proudly he was above them.

12 And Jethro, Moses' father in law, took a burnt offering and sacrifices for God; and Aaron came, and all the elders of Israel, to eat bread with Moses' father in law before God.

Seeking Farm Credits Laws.

It is becoming increasingly plain that the demand for farm credits legislation, which has occupied a more or less prominent place in public attention for the past three years, will be denied but little longer. More adequate financial accommodation for the farmer when he requires it, based upon the product of his acres, is to occupy a large place at the third national conference on marketing and farm credits, to be held at Chicago beginning November 29, and there is every indication that something forceful will be the outcome.

The National Council of Farmers' Co-Operative Association has joined with the National Conference on Marketing and Farm Credits in issuing the call for the meeting. The National Conference on Marketing and Farm Credits is the instrument through which the various interests are brought together rather than representative of a particular interest. The National Council of Farmers' Co-Operative Associations also is a central body. It represents 2,600 co-operative companies which own and operate grain elevators in the middle west and which have an aggregate membership of over 300,000 grain growers. The National Farmers' Union, the National Grange, and various state branches of the American Society of Equity, making a total representation of a million farmers, also have been asked to send delegates.

A million farmers banded together should be able to get pretty nearly anything they desire, and inasmuch as both eminent financiers and distinguished congressional leaders have been invited to assist in threshing out the question, there is small doubt that definite accomplishment will come from the Chicago meeting.

Not long since newspaper dispatches carried a story of a legal hanging in Mississippi which was made a veritable holiday in the town where it occurred, the entire citizenry of city and countryside for miles about flocking to see the execution, which was held in public. Thousands of curious folk with an abnormal appetite for the gruesome stood about to see the poor wretch expiate his crime on the gallows. Now comes Illinois, where the demand to see a hanging induced the county sheriff to permit a crowd of two thousand persons within the enclosure where the convicted man was sent to his doom. Apparently it is still quite as impossible to account for tastes today than in the times of the sage of long ago who declared that it simply couldn't be done.

There are renewed indications of the periodical revival of the project for the construction of an interurban line to connect Fort Wayne with Lake Wawasee, Lagioner, Goshen and other points to the northwest and there will be general hope that there is substantial basis for the new prospects. At various times promoters have dreamed of a network of trolley lines radiating from this city and linking up a network of thriving Northern Indiana towns in Whitley, Noble and Elkhart counties. Whether now or later, we think it very certain that there is to come some dreamer who will be able to make his entrancing vision a reality.

Information from Washington is to the general effect that the Federal parole board will turn down flat the petitions for release filed in behalf of the Terre Haute election crooks who were sentenced to the federal prison at Fort Leavenworth earlier in the year. Apparently Washington believes that the professed moral regeneration of that crowd should be subjected to the acid test before it is accepted at its face value, and that the impressiveness of the prison term has hardly had time as yet to "take" thoroughly.

Benjamin W. Louthain, one of the veteran figures in Indiana newspaper work, is dead at his home in Logansport after a protracted illness. Long in the editorial harness, Mr. Louthain was very widely known, and his career extending over many years was an active and useful one. He leaves as his heritage not only a very wide circle of warm friends, but his lifetime of fine endeavor and a monumental sum total of work well done.

According to the postoffice department $239,000,000 has been filched from the American public during the past four years by fraudulent schemes operated by charmers, matrimonial agents, medical fakes and get-rich-quick schemes of all varieties, despite governmental watchfulness. In the face of this showing it would be interesting to know just how much the financial geniuses operating them could have gotten if they had been given an unrestricted chance at the purse of the general public.

New reports of the death of General Villa by violence are now shown to be unfounded—which shows that the reports of Villa's death are still running absolutely true to form.

HERE'S SERBIA, THE BATTLEFIELD OF THE BALKANS.

This is the latest map of the little country where the deciding battle of the world war seems likely to be fought. The arrow at the right shows the direction of the Bulgarians' drive into Serbian territory—a drive aimed at the railroad between Nish, the new Serbian capital, and Saloniki, in Greece, where the French and British troops were landed to help the Serbians repel the German, Austro-Hungarian and Bulgarian invaders.

WHEN THE STATE CALLS.

(Pittsburgh Dispatch).

Leaving aside for the time consideration of the horrors that war brings, the misery of which there can be no alleviation, the grief that must be life-long, the latest proposal which Britons have to face will make many Americans realize the blessing of peace and the value of preparedness that peace may be secured. Half of every Briton's income is now asked by the government to carry on the war. Coupled with the announcement that conscription is likely to be realized any day, this brings home in concrete form, one effect of war that every man can appreciate. It is a truism that a man is hit hardest through his pocketbook. How many of us would like to hand over half our weekly pay envelope for an indefinite time, if it so happened that we escaped service in the trenches?

It is popular to cry against the rate of taxation, although some very good students of the tax question insist that we are not taxed nearly enough when the benefits given in return in community life are considered. How would the average American feel if he were told half of what he was accustomed to spend on his living expenses and his recreation was to go to the state—and that the state would let him know later whether it wanted more? In England the whole mode of living must be rearranged. Everything that savors of luxury must be dispensed with. All things needless are to have no place in the people's daily life that the state may have wherewithal to fight the battle. It is a lesson which the ever ready shoulder for war might take to heart. The bulletin board strategist might feel less assurance with his daily ration sadly diminished in quantity and kind. The cost of preparedness may seem high. Who can say what would be the cost of conflict?

WINNING BACK THE EAGLE.

(Chicago Herald).

Twenty-eight years ago the admirers of John L. Sullivan's feat of prowess presented him with a costly specimen of the goldsmith's and jeweler's skill as an emblem of his supremacy over all other pugilists. But Sullivan had been fighting an opponent not of the flesh, though many truly believe it is of the devil.

Though his "strength was of the strength of ten," Sullivan couldn't beat John Barleycorn until he changed wholly his plan of battle. No man can. For years John the man fought John the spirit in the old way, and weakened in every round, until at last he was beaten by opponents of flesh also. And in the succession of defeats that followed even the cherished emblem of gold and jewels went into pledge and John L. Sullivan was like a French regiment of the days of Napoleon's glory which had lost its "eagle."

Then John the man changed his plan of battle with John the spirit. It took years of hard work to win back the fortune so lavishly squandered. But because man if he will may overcome an evil spirit John the man had the satisfaction the other day of buying back in Chicago that belt of gold and diamonds and was like a French regiment of the days of Napoleon's glory which had won back its "eagle" from the foe.

There is little reason to fear now that John L. Sullivan's victory over John Barleycorn will not be maintained as long as life endures. And what an encouragement his victory must be to other fighters against that foe. They can win, no matter how hopeless seems the struggle, if they will change the plan of battle as did John L. Sullivan. The grace of God which some are old-fashioned enough to believe must help and such struggles can be won if sought in resolute faith, and with that aid the victory is assured.

LABORER SAVED $60,000.

Curtisville Man Left Estate to Heirs of Sister in Germany.

Tipton, Ind., Oct. 18.—Miss Snixon, who died at Curtisville, Tipton county, left an estate of more than $60,000 to heirs of her sister in Germany. He was a bachelor, a man of peculiar habits and had accumulated his money by working as a laborer for the Pennsylvania Railroad company for a quarter of a century and investing in farm land. No one knew until after his death how much he was worth. Personal notes and bank deposits, which failed to be reported to the assessor, indicated that Snixon owed the county several thousand dollars in taxes, aside from the inheritance tax, and the county assessor will endeavor to collect.

He Made Just Two Million Perfectly Good Dollars Out of a Pile of Junk

Enterprising Young American from Indiana, Now in British Navy, Took a Plunge and Made It Win.

Seattle, Wash., Oct. 18.—How an enterprising young American from Indiana, an officer in the British navy, got possession of a floating junk pile and made it earn millions of dollars is one of the strangest stories ever written.

He is Capt. D. H. Smith, and the junk heap is the convict ship Success, the oldest ship in the world, which recently ended a month's stay in Seattle harbor.

He staked his savings on her in a gamble with chance and a "hunch" as she lay in the Thames, at London, eight years ago, a white elephant on the hands of her owners.

He has converted her into a perpetual gold mine, and now, at 42, he is worrying because he can't let go of her. Let us now temporarily forget Capt. Smith and consider England's penal system early in the 19th century.

When men committed offenses then they were often deported to Australia in Britain's notorious prison hulks.

There were five of these prison hulks, and Capt. Price was their commander. He was a veritable find, and his subordinates were demons and his ships were floating hells.

For years this went on, until the Australian commonwealth arose in protest and abolished the system. Out of the fleet of five prison hulks, four were broken up, by government order, for the teak wood and copper in their hulls.

By some oversight no order was entered against the Success, flagship of Capt. Price. This was in 1868.

From then until 1880 she served as a woman's reformatory, and then for two years as an ammunition store ship, when a syndicate bought her, anchored her in Sydney harbor, and started her on her career as an exhibition ship.

Small boats carried many sightseers from the shore to view her, until the government, alarmed that its past sins should thus be shown, ordered the ship scuttled and sunk.

She lay at the bottom of Sydney harbor five years, and the syndicate died of financial paralysis. A second syndicate raised her and took her back to England, where she was again opened as an exhibition ship, on the Thames.

She was moored at an obscure pier in London, and London knew nothing of her. She was just a little "upen" show." She lay there for years, a miserable frost, and her Australian owners, 16,000 miles from home, were sick of her, and offered her for sale.

Here enters Capt. Smith. Capt. Smith was born in Indiana of English parents. On his 18th birthday, at their insistence, he entered the British navy and sailed all over the world. He heard much of the Success, and took an interest in her.

He found her one day as he was exploring through London's streets, and went aboard. He had heard she was for sale.

Capt. Smith had a little money saved. With part of it he got a 30-day option on the battered old ship, and then hastened to the British museum, where he read up on the old convict system, taking notes as he read. He had dreamed of no such lot on the pages of British history. He picked up his notes and hurried to the editorial office of the 16 leading dailies of London.

The editors sat up and rubbed their eyes. It was new stuff to them. They saw news in it—all but the stately Times, the official organ of the government, "the watchdog of Great Britain." The Times suspected a veiled attack on the government, and would have none of it.

Capt. Smith frankly unfolded his plan to the editors. He would open the Success to the public if they would give him their editorial support.

He had never been in newspaper work himself, but he pointed out the news value of the Success and 15 of them promised to back him.

Capt. D. H. Smith and prison ship "Success."

Then Capt. Smith dashed downstairs to the business offices of these 13 dailies and spent all the money he had left in the first day's advertising.

"I figured I'd either lose it quick or make it quick," he explained.

He moved the ugly vessel from her obscure berth to a pier near the Strand, in the heart of London; he collected historical relics of torture and historical data, and hired trained lecturers to conduct the crowds over the ship.

Also he raised the price of admission from "tuppence" to a shilling. The shillings began rolling in, and as fast as they rolled in Capt. Smith gathered them up and took them to the business offices of the dailies, where he bought more advertising.

Some of the London dailies charged $1,100 an issue. But he got results.

When he bought that 30-day option he told himself the ship either would break him or she would pay for her self in a year. She did neither. She paid for herself in six months.

She lay at that pier three years, the longest any show ever ran in London. And when, after a cruise to other English cities and around the Irish coast, he sailed away for America, the ship had cleared him a million dollars in less than four years.

Robert B. Hanna was the principal speaker Saturday evening at a called meeting of Post A. Travelers' Protective association, in the headquarters, room 12, Arcade. He spoke on the subject of "Good Roads."

The Degree of Honor lodges in Fort Wayne will entertain the superior chief of honor, Mrs. Buell Olson, the fore part of November.

Says Youthfulness is Fashion's Watchword

MME. RIPLEY.
BY MME. ALLA RIPLEY,
President Fashion Art League of America.

Chicago, Oct. 15.—Smartness, good taste, youthfulness, these are the watch-words of fashion this fall.

And the most important of these is youthfulness. In this day of active, efficient women, youth must not be lost sight of. No woman will consent to appear old before her time; no woman wants to look old before she feels old.

As to details of fashions that have come in with the fall—the short, full skirt is finally established, it's a little longer and a little wider than recent models, but it's by no means long, from three to six inches from the floor, is the approved length; the width of the skirt is governed by the length of the coat—the shorter the coat the wider the skirt.

The extremely high waist line has been displaced by the normal or natural waist line, this line is indicated in coats by cuttings and embroideries and partially cut-in motif.

To emphasize the princess effect now so popular the coats have long closing lines, some of them even buttoning to the shoulders, and others have a long diagonal line from throat to waist line.

EDUCATION'S ROCKY PATHWAY IN CHINA

Superstition Resents Any Change to New Order of Things.

Shanghai, Sept. 10.—(Correspondence of The Associated Press).—Difficulties which beset educational leaders in their battle against Chinese superstition are illustrated in a recent riot at Peking, caused by the conversion of a Buddhist monastery into a public school.

For several years the Sunching monastery had been used in part for school purposes. In deference to the superstition of the villagers, however, the school committee did not remove the idols of Kuan Yin and other buddhas from the monastery until such a step became necessary to make room for more pupils.

The monks were indignant and inspired a number of boys to circulate the report that Buddha Kuan Yin had by means of inspiration ordered them to seek the countryside to resist the removal of the images from the monastery temple.

Fired by the monastic warning, excited countrymen organized a mob and destroyed all the public school furniture and books. The mob then moved against Messrs. Tsai and Tung, members of the public school committee, and destroyed their homes. All the shops and public buildings in the village closed to avoid the fury of the mob, but no further damage was done.

The rioters all reside within the jurisdiction of Shanghai officials, who are now attempting to locate the leaders of the mob. Buddhist monasteries throughout China are falling into ruin and their temples are badly neglected. In many cases they are used as tea houses or shops. Sometimes they are even used as stables. Natives make fun of the monks and give them little support. But in time of illness and financial troubles the ignorant Chinese turn to the monks and priests, who still hold sway over a considerable portion of the coolie class.

WILL CASE AGAINST MORGAN IS DROPPED

Fairfax Court House, Va., Oct. 18.—Martha Washington's will, which was taken from the court house here by a union trooper during one of the battles of Bull Run and later found its way into the collection of the late J. P. Morgan, was returned to the county archives today with elaborate ceremonies.

Recently the state of Virginia sued J. P. Morgan in the supreme court of the United States to recover the historic document. Mr. Morgan suggested that it be placed in Mount Vernon. Fairfax county folk, however, claimed it as part of their court records and today it was restored to its place beside the will of Gen. Washington. The case against Mr. Morgan will be dropped.

ANOTHER VICTIM SUCCEUMS.
Death List in Film House Blaze at Atlanta Now Three.

Atlanta, Ga., Oct. 18.—Miss Lucie Davis, 18, one of those seriously burned here Saturday in a fire in the office of the Mutual Film corporation, died yesterday, bringing the death list up to three. One young woman was burned to death in the building and another died shortly after being taken to a hospital.

FUNERAL FOR DAVIS' CAPTOR.
William P. Stedman Is Buried at Washington.

Washington, Oct. 18.—Funeral services were held here today for William P. Stedman, a former private in the Fourth Michigan regiment during the civil war, and the captor of Jefferson Davis after the fall of Richmond. Stedman died here yesterday at the age of 79 years. He had been a resident of Washington for almost a quarter of a century and at the time of his death was an employee of the department of agriculture.

Plans are already being made for the golden jubilee of Sol D. Bayless lodge, No. 353, P. & A. M., to be held May 26, 1916. Alfred Hatterley and Byron Angell are the only members living who assisted in the organization.

Robert E. Penfold will leave Wednesday on a business trip to New York city, which will take a week or ten days. Mr. Penfold expects to locate in New Rochelle, a suburb of New York, in the near future.

At the third table have individual pumpkin pies, and ginger cookies cut in the shape of a cat; dip cookies after baking in chocolate icing and fasten a skewer in the back and the cats will sit up on the table.

Popcorn balls may be wrapped in colored paper. Write on a paper a quotation then cut the paper in two parts, wrap two popcorn balls and partners for next dance are found by finding the beginning or end to the quotation on the ball of corn.

Fill peanuts with rice or buttons; or a dollar sign, tiny clothespins; each having its significance; rice, wedding; button, single blessedness; dollar sign, riches; clothespin, work for a living.

These peanuts are easily made—remove the kernels and fill the space with anything desired and wet edges with a little glue and press the shells together, allow to "set" and they are ready for the fun.

On this one night fate gives an opportunity to "peer into the future and to divine the course of true love," and many ways of telling if any or all will come true will be resorted to.

Candles will be replaced in "my lady's" window, each silently named before being lit; the one which burns the longest will remain faithful to the end. Tassels from corn ears are named and placed over doors by a maid, and the first man to pass under the one bearing his name will prove his life partner.

CHICAGO WOMAN'S HOSPITAL UNIQUE

Mrs. Mary Borden Turner

Devises Field Institution

Out of Ordinary.

Busbrugge, Belgium, Oct. 9.—(Correspondence of The Associated Press).—While rushing through Belgium three cars full of officers and correspondents stopped at the unique field hospital conducted by Mrs. Mary Borden Turner, of Chicago.

It is constructed of portable sections, electrically lighted from a plant in a motor-lorry, and long wooden buildings in all, with operating room and X-ray plant, its own laundry, and most of the features of a permanent hospital.

When the party arrived American ambulance drivers were removing ten men who had recovered sufficiently to be taken to hospitals further away from the firing line. After a tour of the wards, Mrs. Turner entertained the party at tea in her own little wooden office building and talked of the work.

"When Dunkirk was bombarded, my friends at home were worried because we are so near the Germans, but it is so satisfying to be where we can see such results. And these uncomplaining soldiers are splendid. We have 135 here now. The only complaining one is a British soldier. He hurt his ankle badly playing football. He said he was ashamed to go back with that kind of injury, so we are letting him stay. As a rule we move farther to the rear all who can go, to make room for those brought from the trenches."

The Benevolent Order of Balloons gave a fall feast and entertainment in their hall, 120 West Berry street, Monday afternoon.

DEER AT LARGE IN INDIANA.

Seven Escape From a Park at Indianapolis.

Indianapolis, Oct. 18.—There are wild deer in Indiana. It became known today that seven of a local herd had escaped and that efforts to capture them had been fruitless.

Led by a big antlered buck, the entire herd of twenty charged through the wire fence about the park in which they were kept and escaped early Saturday. Thirteen of them later straggled back to the park. The other seven were seen frequently yesterday, but they fled at the approach of men.

The regular meeting of the Fort Wayne Real Estate exchange will be held Monday evening at 6:30 o'clock at the Commercial club. It will be the last meeting before the state convention to be held here Wednesday and Thursday.

Society

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Max Bliz, in West Wayne street, was the scene of a happy gathering today as Mrs. Bliz's parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Barcus, of Bluffton, are here celebrating their golden wedding anniversary and meeting during the day and evening such of their old friends as find an opportunity to call. Nearly forty people, all relatives, gathered at the Bliz home today and enjoyed a reunion at a dinner at the noon hour. At the table with Mr. and Mrs. Barcus were their brothers and sisters and Mr. and Mrs. Bliz and three children. The table is trimmed with a big bowl of oak leaves and yellow mums and bows of yellow tulle and yellow hooded lights carry out the appropriate color effect, while all appointments of the table are elegant. Smaller tables have Italian ware, low vases of yellow roses in their centers and about the room similar is used on chandeliers and in festoons as a beautiful setting to the gold coloring. Nut cups of white with gold lettering and the dates in gold are another bit of effective decoration. The guests at the dinner and for the day are Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bennett, of Indianapolis; Mr. and Mrs. Richard Barcus, Mr. and Mrs. William Bennett, Mrs. Martha McFarren, Mr. and Mrs. John Goodyear and Mrs. Clara Springstead, all of Bluffton, who are the brothers and sisters of Mr. and Mrs. Barcus. The visitors were Mrs. Bear's parents, from Paulding, Ohio, and fifteen friends from the city, who called with a gift for Mrs. Bear and well filled lunch baskets for a spread which everyone present enjoyed.

A very pretty party was given on Friday evening by Miss Eleanor Odden, of Lafayette street, in honor of her guest, Miss Bertha Hartback, of Kokomo. The guests who enjoyed this kind of time playing cards and in disposing of the refreshing things to eat that Miss Odden served, were Misses Anna Schneiders, Eva Strack, Bernadette

TWINS CELEBRATE BIRTHDAY ANNIVERSARY.

CATHERINE AND DOLORES KROUSE

Catherine and Dolores Krouse are twin daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Adam Krouse, of Smith street, and at a recent celebration of their fifth anniversary they entertained sixteen of their small playmates and other friends, who spent the afternoon. After playing games the twins led the way to the dining room, where a table beautifully decorated and many good things to eat awaited them. Mrs. Joe Krouse, of Sheldon, and Misses Eva and Irene Harknider assisted

Mrs. Krouse in serving the children. Among the beautiful gifts the children received were dolls, and Grandpa Harknider's gift was a big doll for each, which the children held when their pictures were taken. The children present were Dorothy Geiger, Mercedes McCune, Mabel Cramer, Esther Tagmeyer, Catherine Rhoads and Miss O'Rourke are in charge of the program. The guests were Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Fricker, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Scherer, the Misses Edna and Marie Lieberenz, Edith and Minnie Schuster, Mary Shivers, Grace Whitmore, Bertha Lonnert and Messrs. Walter and Dewey Lieberenz, Walter Howe, Lyndon Parker, Elmer Fox, Frank Connett and Gottlieb Lample.

A delightful time was spent on Saturday evening by a company of young people, who surprised Miss Anna Huebner at her home, 220 Killea avenue, as a reminder of her birthday anniversary. Progressive bucco was enjoyed and music furnished by Herman Gerdum. Prizes in the contests were won by Miss Pearl Stimmel and Gertrude Lankenau and Messrs. Herman Gerdum and Fred Bicknese. AMERICAN YACHT IS HELD.

Colombian Government Sees Suspicious Circumstances.

Bogota, Colombia, Oct. 18.—An American yacht bound from San Francisco, the name Academy painted over the name Ethel, and carrying an unusually large crew, is being detained by government authorities near Buena Ventura, a Colombian port on the Pacific, under suspicious circumstances. According to the Colombian officials the vessel's papers are irregular. The German name of the master of the ship, it is asserted, has been erased from the papers and an American name substituted. The yacht was searched but nothing was found to indicate the mission of the crew. The vessel will be detained until her legal status has been established.

Young Vastana was struck in the eye by a stick, it is said, and may lose the optic. The other boy was also struck in the eye.

CONGRESS IS ASKED TO PRESERVE PRE-HISTORIC MOUNDS

Monks Of Cahokia Observe Strange Ritual In Honor Of a By-gone Race—Dress and Ceremonies Resemble That Of the Ku Klux--The Members Of This Secret
Organization In Illinois Are Now Engaged In a Weird Task

About an ancient mound, where many centuries ago a now forgotten race worshipped, at the present day there appears mystic figures wearing cowls and masks and singing strange incantations that in their weirdness seem to be revivals of the chants of the original dwellers of the land.

These men or the Monks of Cahokia, come at night to honor the memory of that forgotten race of centuries ago. Not one is known to the other, not a word is spoken except the strange incantation and no eyes save those of the monks are allowed to gaze on the mystic rites for the dead buried beneath that mound.

The Mound of Cahokia is near East St. Louis. It is the work of the mound builders and its history is lost in the oblivion of the past.

The Monks of Cahokia are business men of Illinois. They now number more than 500, yet as was said before, during the entire ceremony at the mound the identity of each monk is concealed from that of the other and no word is interchanged between them.

There, before that mystic pile that contains beneath it the bones of perhaps the oldest inhabitants of this continent, with the moon as the only light for ceremony, the Monks of Cahokia chant their sad song to the memory of a forgotten race.

The chant of the new in the honor of the old is the only link that binds a forgotten race of mound builders to the present generation of Monks.

DRESS LIKE KU KLUX.

The organization of the Monks of Cahokia was formed many years ago and not until recently were the names of any of its members known. As mysterious as the Ku Klux or the night riders of Kentucky, these men in their cowls and wearing masks gathered at periods to engage in their mystic work. Glimmering lights appearing as will-o'-the-wisps occasionally gave to passersby a glimpse of this secret organization at its ritualistic work, but the full account of what occurs about the mound when the monks are at their prayers or rather incantations never has been fully known.

There are weird sounds, strange noises and strange words as the songs are sung for the dead of Cahokia Mound. The feeble figures in their queer garb, the almost uncanon sounds of the incantations and the very mystery of the action of the monks, might lead to the belief that the dead mound builders were reincarnated and were singing their laments.

Until recently the names of the leaders of the Monks were shrouded in mystery. Some of the forms were recognized, but the Monks never revealed any of their secrets or admitted even their membership.

However, they finally decided that this gigantic mound should be perpetuated, and decided to call on congress to purchase the land on which it is located. Congress, however, failed to act favorably and now the matter is before the Illinois legislature.

The publicity necessary for such a project revealed the names of the leaders of the movement. George E. Little of Edwardsville is Lord High Chancellor and J. H. Dierker of Edwardsville is amantensis. Among the recently admitted members are Congressman William E. Dodenberg, Judge W. E. Hadley of Edwardsville and Dr. Henry H. Whelpley, an archaeologist of St. Louis, who has explored the ancient mound and has taken from it many valuable relics.

MIXING IN THE MODERN.

The membership of the order now equals 500, more than 150 new ones being initiated at a recent meeting at the Elks' club. This was one of the few initiations not held at the mound itself, and antiquity was mixed with the modern by a cabaret following the initiation.

Before the service the Monks in their strange garb paraded the streets of East St. Louis, headed by a brass band. They were so disguised by their masks and with the hood of their cowl drawn over their heads that it was impossible for the crowd that viewed the parade to recognize any individual.

The Mound of Cahokia is in St. Clair county, Illinois. It is surrounded by a chain of smaller mounds. In all there are 25 mounds in an area of 250 acres and it is this land that the Monks have asked the state of Illinois to purchase as a park.

The history of the ancient race that constructed these mounds is buried in the deepest antiquity. Archaeologists are certain that they even ante-dated the Indians who were supposed to be the first inhabitants of this continent.

Geologists, too, give to the mound builders a very early period in the history of the world. It is certain from observations of both classes of scientists that at some period estimated as far back as 10,000 to 20,000 years ago by the geologists and 2,000 to 5,000 by the archaeologists and historians, there lived in America an ancient race that in many ways excelled in accomplishments the Indians who succeeded them.

What the exact period of their existence was never will be learned, unless at some future date the exploration of some of the mounds reveals tablets that will give the world the history of this most ancient race.

HISTORY. IN DOUBT.

Whether they flourished before the glacial period has not been established. The high-class of their work indicates that perhaps it was after the glacial period. Drawing on the rocks on the bluffs along the Mississippi river may have been by the mound dwellers or the Indians who succeeded them. These drawings in a mixture of red fire clay and some peculiarly lasting oil, represented strange birds and animals, now long extinct. One prominent one drawn on the limestone of the bluffs is of the Fiasa bird, a bird of mythology that may have had something to do with the religious worship of this ancient race.

The exploration of many of the mounds found throughout the United States brought forth indications that the mound builders were of the same high order of civilization as the Egyptians, if not of a contemporaneous period.

Their pottery work far excelled that of the Indians who inhabit the United States.

They had pots and vases with handles, showing the higher accomplishment in the production of clay utensils.

They had spears with iron heads and bodies of bamboo, crudely fashioned knives of iron blades and wooden handles.

They had mills for grinding meal, the latter showing that in civilization they surpassed the Indian, although they ante-dated them.

The mound builders evidently were a peaceful nation. They hunted game as the relics of animals found in the mounds indicate. They apparently cultivated grain. They had a high degree of cultivation. They were home loving. Nothing has been discovered to indicate that they ever warred. Little there is to indicate that there were heroes among them or that any were called on to defend their homes.

What became of this ancient race? Certainly they were not wiped out by the Indians as there is nothing in the history of the latter race to indicate this.

WHAT WAS THEIR FATE?

It almost is certain that the ravages of disease could not have wiped out a nation that apparently was spread not only over North America, but evidence of which also is found in South America. Further proof that they lived before the great glacial period is found in the fact that in the ruins are found the bones of prehistoric animals—animals that were so gigantic that nothing but nature itself could have rendered them extinct.

There are many positive proofs that through a depression in yearly temperature a glacial period invaded Europe, Northern Asia and North America, burying wide expanses of territory under an ice-sheet of whose character and extent northern Greenland with its surface capped by ice can afford an idea. The immediate result of this sudden climatic change was an essential alteration in the fauna. Animal forms that were unequal to the impaired climate, that could neither resist it or adapt themselves to it, were at first driven back and then annihilated.

Were, then, the ancient builders of mounds of Cahokia and of other such mounds throughout the United States among those to be caught in the glacial period—that ancient time that ante-dates history itself and is known only from the unmistakable marks of its existence that archaeologists and geologists have found?

The glacial or drift period drove many animals from the western hemisphere to the eastern across what is now Behring sea.

Thus it is apparent that the last vestige of human life disappeared after the great ice floes came down from the north. When after thousands of years this ice melted there came to North America the Indians. They found the land uninhabited. But did they find the same mounds that are now seen through the country?

Whether or not the mound builders pre-dated them perhaps never will be learned.

It is this very mystery that the Monks of Cahokia today worship. There is something strange about those mounds as one views them. They cannot but recall vivid mental representations of an era long gone when a strange race trod there.

It is this veneration for antiquity that created the Monks of Cahokia, the most unique organization of its kind in the United States.

MADE MUNCIE LOOK LIKE RUSSIAN ARMY"Disorderly Retreat" of Converville Crew in Sunday Farce.

From state champions in 1912 to their present condition is some drop for the Converville football team, but, according to the score board yesterday, they were repaid with interest for the infamous defeat they administered the Friars two years ago. The Muncie team was hopelessly outclassed in all departments of the game, and most notably in defensive work; their secondary defense did not hold once out of twenty times and as a result the locals crossed the goal line for sixteen touchdowns and finished with a score of 109 to 0.

The feature of the game that excited the most admiration was the interference of the locals. At least three and sometimes four men sprang the opposition out of the way of the man carrying the ball. The Friars are now a well trained, smooth working scoring machine and when Wabash puts in an appearance here they will doubtless be disagreeably surprised. Lambert showed what he could do in open field work, and Chambers demonstrated that he was still able to slough through the lines.

The closest Muncie came to scoring was on the first period when they actually got to within fifteen yards of the goal, but the Friar line held and Muncie finished the game with a goose egg to her credit. Straight football gave the locals 27 for the first half; Kennedy crossed for the first tally and a few minutes later La Fado registered on a long forward pass. Kennedy then scored with two more, which finished the scoring for that quarter.

Lambert started things in the second period with two successive touchdowns and Kennedy registered once. Then a cog slipped in the Friar machine and Muncie gained possession of the ball. Then the visitors attempted to give a demonstration of their much advertised trick play and after three miserable failures punted. La Fado punted, bringing the score up to 55.

The Muncie organization instead of tightening up seemed to get worse as the third quarter progressed, and the locals scored at will. This quarter was played almost entirely by second string men and these seemed to experience no trouble in crossing Muncie's goal. Toward the close of the game, in response to the frequent calls of the crowd to "make it a hundred," the Friars did so and went into the locker, scoring once after the century mark. PLENTY OF SPACE

(By Brown Holmes.)

Braves field, Boston, seats 44,000 persons. The Harvard stadium seats 50,000. The Yale bowl seats 70,000.

Now comes the Sheephead hay speedway which seats 130,000.

On dope, the speedway is the biggest lotteried over in the way of a palace of sport. In the old days it was claimed the Circus Maximus seated 250,000. That is doubted. It was also claimed the coliseum would seat 87,000 Romans, but measurement of what is left of the coliseum indicates it would hold about 45,000.

The Speedway, scene of the Astor cup race, is located on the old Sheephead bay race track, Long Island. It contains a two mile track and is a wonderful piece of work.

The track surrounds 450 acres of ground. It is not to be used only for auto races. There's a football field, a baseball field, fifty tennis courts and enough room for an aviation meet, a horse show and even a military tournament.

Besides, it is probable space will be allotted for open air grand opera in warm months and skating and hockey in the winter.

The speedway cost a lot of money to build. It will cost a lot for maintenance. But there are enough rich men behind the scheme to make it a go.

It will be the first appearance of the Philadelphia boy in the middle west. In the east Stevens met and defeated some of the fastest boys in the bantam class. Then opponents became scarce and he decided to come west. Stevens has made his home in Columbus, O., and has been training diligently for a go with Mason. CRIMSON STAR SHOWS HOW TO HANDLE BALL.

FIFTH OF A SERIES OF PICTURES POSED BY EDDIE MAHAN, HARVARD CAPTAIN, AND ONE OF THE GREATEST PLAYERS THE GRIDIRON HAS PRODUCED, SHOWING HOW HE PLAYS FOOTBALL.

(By Eddie Mahan, as told in an interview with Brown Holmes, special sport writer.)

In running with the ball I carry it with one end against the crook in the elbow and the other in the hand with the fingers spread out and gripped tightly about the ball (as shown in the picture on the left).

The ball should not be tucked back under the arm (as shown in the middle picture) for in that position it can be punched out.

I believe that in some places players are taught to raise their leg up when catching punts. I do not raise my leg, but catch the ball against my chest with the arms bent to make a pocket, and one hand crossed over the other (as shown in the picture on the right).

(The next picture will show how a lineman should play on defense.)

EVANSVILLE MOTHERS
WOULD CENSOR FILMSSay Daughters Take What
They See at Movies Too Seriously.

Evansville, Ind., Oct. 18.—Evansville mothers fear their daughters are adapting to real life the romances they view in "reel life." At a meeting of the Mothers' club of Centennial school, plans were discussed to obtain mother supervision of the "movies."

Although the screen drama's worth as an educational agent is admitted by teachers and parents, they have returned the following indictments: Young girls are prone to take too seriously the romance of the movies. They yearn for the seeming ease of milady of the screen. Marriage is held up to ridicule.

E. P. Wiles, principal of the high school, says the rapid transitions of some films detract from the child's power of concentration. To offset the evil influence they fear is produced by certain classes of filmed theatricals the mothers would put the ban on the following: The melodramatic gunplay drama; the "love-sick" moving picture; moving pictures holding marriage up to ridicule and depending for comedy on violations of the marriage vows.

Women say that federal censorship of the screen play will be the subject of resolutions submitted to the State Federation of Women's clubs at Indianapolis. They declare that different grades of pictures should be provided for people of different ages and this work, it was said, would have to be done by women.

Mrs. Molly Carter, of the Rosedale Mothers' club, said her organization would be glad to join in a campaign for better movies. She said: "We mothers have noted the effect of various pictures on our daughters. The girls see too much love making in moving pictures and as a result they begin to think of the boys too early in life. They become less obedient when they observe the free and easy attitude of the women of the motion picture. Many of these so-called comedies use indecency to marriage vows as the central plot. Marriage is held up to ridicule and the young people think of the marital state more lightly. The national board of censorship is doing good work, but it is necessarily limited in its activities."

E. P. Wiles said: "Pictures that shift scenery to destroy the child's power of concentration. Motion pictures, when used in the right way, have a great educational value. As soon as the mothers demand a better class of plays for their children, the exhibitors will insist on a better class for their houses. What is all right for the adult may not be good for the child."

The Mothers' club of Centennial school will ask the co-operation of other mothers' clubs of the city. The mothers will endeavor, they say, to have certain days set aside on which special pictures will be shown for the little ones.

NEW BOXING OFFICIAL FAVORS DECISIONS BY REFEREE.

Fred A. Wenck, new chairman of the boxing commission of New York state, favors decisions by referees.

Wenck says decisions would make "staliers" hustle but the drawback is the chance that a gambling clique would spring up. Wenck will take up with other commissioners the proposition of allowing decisions.

Decisions in New York will greatly affect the game as the biggest purses are to be had there.

BIG EASTERN FIGHT NEARS

New Jersey Will Vote on Woman Suffrage Tuesday.

3 OTHER STATES TO DECIDE IT SOON

Wilson's Endorsement is Big Aid to Cause in His Home State.

New York, Oct. 18.—The first great eastern fight on the farflung battle line of woman suffrage is today only 24 hours away. At 6 o'clock tomorrow morning the polls throughout the state of New Jersey will be thrown open to determine at a special election whether "votes for women" banners will be planted victoriously thereafter upon the Atlantic seaboard.

Two weeks from tomorrow the three other eastern states of New York, Pennsylvania and Massachusetts likewise will decide whether they will join their twelve western sister states in giving women the ballot.

Expected to Win.

President Wilson's declaration for suffrage, reinforced by a thorough and vigorous campaign waged by organizations and workers is expected by suffrage leaders to carry the day for woman suffrage in his home state of New Jersey. More than 350 women speakers and other workers went over the battlefield today, their automobiles carrying them through the sections where the fight will be the hottest, into even the smallest towns and hamlets. In the big cities, the campaign was similarly intensified. From many vantage points, including thousands of street cars, cartoons and picturesque posters pleaded earnestly with voters to cast their ballots for woman suffrage.

Opponents Also Active.

Less spectacular, but none the less thoroughly organized was the campaign conducted by opponents to suffrage. Party lines have been obliterated in the contest, democrat and republican leaders are working both for and against the cause. Some suffrage workers feel that both organizations are quietly opposing them but there is no open evidence that this is a state-wide condition. Women watchers and workers to the number of 5,000, admitted to the polls at the forthcoming election for the first time in the state received their final instructions today and prepared to take their places tomorrow at virtually every one of the polling precincts in the state.

VICTIMS OF CAR RIOT WILL BOTH RECOVER

Young Bruick and Strike Breaker Conductor Under Arrest.

Word from St. Joseph hospital, late Monday forenoon, was that Theodore W. Bruick, aged 16, and Frank R. Tibbles, a strike-breaker conductor employed on the city street car lines, will both recover from broken heads they received at noon Sunday during trouble that took place at Anthony boulevard and East Creighton avenue. Both are under arrest on charges of assault and battery and each will be required to furnish bond of $1,000 as soon as he is able to leave the hospital or go to jail.

The cases were called in the city court Monday morning and continued granted until Thursday. John Palmer, motorman on the car of which Tibbles was conductor, was put under $300 bond for his appearance as a witness. He furnished the bond, after having been detained at headquarters since the trouble Sunday.

Conductor Attacks Lad.

The fight in which young Bruick and Conductor Tibbles were injured grew out of the attempt of Tibbles to take from Bruick a switch hook he had had. Bruick and several boys were standing on the corner of East Creighton avenue and Anthony boulevard at noon when Tibbles ran his car onto the "Y" to turn it. According to witnesses there was no provocation of the car crew and nothing to cause a conflict until Tibbles noticed the switch hook carried by Bruick, when he left his car and sought to wrest it from the boy. Bruick resisted and Tibbles wrenched the implement from the youth's hands and struck him a heavy blow over the head with it. The hook tearing through Bruick's hat, cutting his scalp seriously and penetrating his skull.

Accusations Thrown Back.

Young Bruick then picked up a large brickbat and hurled with great force at his assailant, striking Tibbles on the side of the head and fracturing his skull.

Tibbles got aboard his car and drawing a revolver fired three shots at the crowd that had gathered. All of his shots went wild and no one was struck by a bullet.

Motorman Palmer is said to have tried to prevent Conductor Tibbles from using his revolver but was unable to do so. He started back to the car and the car and injured conductor. Crowds that had heard of the shooting congregated along the way and there was the spirit of serious trouble abroad. Tibbles, alarmed by this, left the car and appealed to Rev. W. H. Langstaff, who resides on the Lima road, north of the city, for help and was taken in that gentleman's automobile. The automobile was intercepted at John and Buchanan streets by Detective Sergeant Charles Spillner, who turned the injured conductor over to Officers Kavanaugh, Barr and Hartzell, of the police squad, which had meanwhile arrived.

Palmer Exonerates Bruick.

In a signed statement given to Chief Police Lenz at headquarters Motorman Palmer exonerated Bruick from blame for the start of the trouble. He said Tibbles asked him to stop the car and he had been turned and started to the city, saying he "wanted to

71 LOST LIFE WHEN FRENCH BOAT SUNK

Survivors of the Admiral Hamelin Sent Down by a Submarine, Have Arrived at Marseilles.

Paris, Oct. 18.—Seventy-one persons lost their lives when the French steamship, Admiral Hamelin, was torpedoed and sunk by a submarine. A dispatch to the Havas agency from Marseilles, which brings this news does not specify whether the victims were passengers or members of the crew.

A Paris dispatch sent early Sunday morning said that the steamer Isphahan had arrived at Marseilles from Madagascar, having on board Captain Guibert and the crew of the steamship "Admiral" which was recently sunk by a submarine. Probably this is the same vessel referred to in the more recent dispatch from Marseilles. It is not stated when and where the steamer was sunk.

KING'S CONTEMPT FOR DANGER.

Victor Emmanuel's Attitude Source of Worry to Gen. Cadorna.

Paris, Oct. 18.—King Victor Emmanuel's contempt for danger, says a dispatch from Rome, is the source of one of General Cadorna's greatest anxieties. Recently the king stood watching a battery in action on the Carso front when a hostile aeroplane flew right over it. His staff begged him to move but he refused.

Two Italian aeroplanes meanwhile gave chase to the enemy, which flew back towards his own lines, dropping get that switch hook." Palmer sought to dissuade Tibbles, who refused to listen and left the car. The scuffle followed in which both men were hurt.

On the car Tibbles, after firing into the crowd, turned his revolver over to a stranger and asked him to take care of it and urged Palmer to get him to the hospital as quickly as possible. The revolver was recovered Sunday afternoon on the rifle range of Company E, near the city of the city, by Sergeant I. N. G., north of the city, when he found Harry Wagner engaging in pistol practice. Sergeant Bartel turned the gun over to the police. Wagner says it was given to him by a man on the street car, who had at first hid it in the sandbox on the car.

Palmer's Son Held for Toting Gun.

John Palmer, Jr., son of Conductor John Palmer, who was on the East Creighton avenue car, was arrested Monday morning on a warrant charging him with carrying concealed weapons. He is said to have flourished a revolver Friday night when a street car was attacked on West Main street. He is a strike-breaker motorman brought here from Indianapolis at the beginning of the present street car trouble in Fort Wayne. Young Palmer was escorted to a cell but a short time after his father had been released from one. He says he was employed as a strike-breaker in the Indianapolis car strike a year ago. He was continued for trial until Tuesday morning and his bond was fixed at $100.

Dr. Charles E. Barnett will leave Tuesday for Lexington, Ky., where he will attend the annual convention of the Mississippi Valley Medical Society.

BOMBARDMENT IS TERRIFIC

Violent Prelude to German Attempt to Break Belgian Lines.

Lapenne, Belgium, Oct. 17.—(Via Paris, Oct. 18.)—The Belgische Standard, published here, says that a terrible bombardment was in progress along Yser fronts Saturday and Sunday nights. The firing was especially violent near Dixmude and Ypres. This bombardment was the prelude to an attempt by the Germans to break the Belgian lines. The Belgian artillery returned the fire, shelling the enemy's communication trenches and scattering his infantry as they leaped from the trenches. A second attack on a smaller scale also was repulsed. This offensive took place in the Dixmude region at a spot known as "Death's Highway," which has been stubbornly disputed by both sides. Although mowed down in rows the Belgians have been holding their own and not yielding an inch of ground.

ITALY GOING INTO BALKANS.

Rome, Oct. 18.—Italy's co-operation with her allies in the Balkans may now be considered as absolutely certain says the Correspondence Italian. This probably will begin with naval action in the Aegean sea.

TEACHERS WILL HEAR PRESIDENT WILSON

Practically every teacher in Fort Wayne and Allen county will attend the sixty-second annual meeting of the Indiana State Teachers' association at Indianapolis, Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday, October 27, 28, 29 and 30.

The state legal authorities have ruled that teachers may be allowed daily wages for attending the state association, under the law enacted by the legislature permitting school authorities to set aside three days out of each school year for visiting other schools and attending teachers' meetings.

The big feature of the meeting will be the address by President Woodrow Wilson, who is scheduled to speak on Friday afternoon in the coliseum at the state fair grounds.

REACHES CENTURY MARK.

Baltimore, Md., Oct. 18.—William Wallace Spence, for many years a leading financier of this city, is celebrating today the 100th anniversary of his birth. For years Mr. Spence has expressed the determination to live to be 100 years old, and the fact that he has done so is attributed largely to his iron will.

FIVE PERSONS HURT WHEN CAR HITS AUTO

Mrs. Nora Havens in Serious Condition as Result of Injuries.

Mrs. Nora Havens was reported in a serious condition Monday morning at St. Joseph hospital as the result of injuries she sustained when the automobile in which she was riding was struck by an eastbound interurban car on the Ohio Electric shortly before 5 o'clock Sunday evening on the first crossing west of New Haven, just off of the Lincoln highway. Four other persons were injured, but were able to be removed to their homes.

An X-ray examination of Mrs. Havens' injuries was made Monday morning. She suffered a compound fracture of her left leg, a broken right ankle and internal injuries. The others injured were:

R. K. Miller, 1708 Illinois street, a city mail carrier, cut in forehead and cheek; left shoulder injured and numerous bruises about the body.

Mrs. R. K. Miller, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hoemig, painfully bruised about the legs and arms.

Charles Hoemig, father of Mrs. Havens' two ribs fractured and numerous bruises about the body.

Mrs. Charles Hoemig, contusions and bruises on legs and arms.

Auto a Total Wreck.

The large Paige touring car in which they were riding and belonging to Mr. Hoemig is a total wreck. The fact that the occupants of the machine were hurled for several yards away from the track is believed to be the only thing that prevented them from being killed.

Mrs. Havens, who was driving, saw the approaching interurban car as did the other occupants, but it is believed they did not realize it was so close. No sooner was the automobile on the track than it was struck, the auto being carried along a distance of nearly two hundred feet before the motorman was able to stop. The occupants were hurled in every direction.

Several Witnesses.

The accident was witnessed by a number of persons who happened to be passing in their automobiles, as well as by the crew and passengers on the interurban. Every possible assistance was rendered the injured, who were carried to the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Eggeman. Dr. G. G. Brudi, of New Haven, was the first physician called and he was soon joined by Drs. J. W. Thimlar and Elmer G. Singer, both of this city. The doctors were assisted by Miss Anna Lindeke, a graduate from the Lutheran hospital training school for nurses, who happened to be passing soon after the accident occurred. The injured were identified by Mrs. Frank Behrman, of New Haven, a passenger on the interurban car, who some years ago lived neighbors to the Hoemig family.

Taken to the Hospital.

After the wounds of the injured had been temporarily dressed by the attending physicians they were conveyed to the St. Joseph hospital in the Schone & Ankenbruck and Klachn & Melching auto ambulances. Later all but Mrs. Havens were able to be removed to their homes.

Mrs. Havens' condition is regarded as extremely critical. She resides with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hoemig, 216 Fourth street.

Thrown Many Feet.

Mrs. Hoemig stated Monday morning that the only thing she remembers was that just before the crash she realized something was about to happen. When she regained consciousness she was sitting in the house. Mrs. Hoemig was hurled a long distance, but is of the opinion that because of the thick clothing she wore her injuries were not more serious. Mr. Hoemig was suffering intensely Monday morning and will be confined to his home for some time.

$15,000 WAR STAMPS LOOT OF CRACKSMEN

Robbers Pull Off Bold Job at U. S. Revenue Office in Evansville.

Evansville, Ind., Oct. 18.—Cracksmen evidently familiar with the ground plans of the local federal building early today forced open the safe in the United States internal revenue office and took $15,000 in emergency war stamps. The robbery was committed while postoffice employees were busy on the floor below and the night watchman was tucking his rounds of the building.

Deputy Collector Foley asserts the robbers overlooked several thousand dollars worth of tobacco and liquor stamps which are not easily disposed of. The war tax stamps can be readily turned into money, officials say. No explosive was used in opening the safe. A drill was used, after which the robbers evidently used a powerful instru-

TOTAL OF DEAD MAY NEVER BE LEARNED

Randolph, Kas., Oct. 18.—The exact number of dead in the wreck Saturday of the Union Pacific motor train at the Fancy creek bridge, near here, may never be known. When the car, which plunged headfirst into the creek was raised yesterday the front end dropped out, carrying into the stream those bodies which the rescuers were unable to reach Saturday night.

All efforts to find the bodies in the rising stream failed. The number is not known, but officials believe the bodies of four and probably six persons were in the forward compartment.

Estimates today placed the number of dead at 15 to 17 persons, including the eleven whose bodies were found Saturday. Forty persons were injured, several probably fatally.

SHOP AND RAILROAD NEWS

FREIGHT TRAFFIC IS ON INCREASE

Railroads Report Improvement Which is Expected to Be Permanent.

Traffic on the east and west railroads is again showing an improvement and on the Pennsylvania, the Wabash and the Nickel Plate it is considered fairly good for the time of year and promises to be better in the future. The Pennsylvania had twenty-one freight trains out of Fort Wayne last night, which is said to be a good run for twelve hours. Business on the G. R. & I. is also showing an improvement and occasionally promotions are made. The latest advancement is that of Passenger Fireman W. M. Smith, who has been assigned to trains 3 and 8. The Pennsylvania has increased its yard force also. Engineer F. H. Rogers and Fireman H. A. Welch have been given duty work on the coal dock engine and Engineer H. S. Current and Fireman F. E. Sarver have been assigned to the additional engine in the east yards at night. These and other changes at the yards will result in the recall of Yard Firemen C. T. Meenan and O. A. Stahl, who, during the lull in traffic, were acting as callers of engine crews.

SAYS BUSINESS IS GOOD.

W. M. Stevenson, of Chicago, traveling salesman for the Crucible Steel company, of America, of Pittsburgh, was calling on Fort Wayne patrons of the company today. Mr. Stevenson says the Crucible Steel company's business is the best in the history of the company and the works are being run nearly every hour of the day with all the men who can be handled advantageously. There is a great demand for all kinds of steel and manufacturers are selling on six to nine months delivery. This is particularly true of sheet steel and boiler plate. One big consumer of this kind of metal is now placing orders on nine months' delivery for the first time in its history. On one or two former occasions this company was obliged to wait six months for the delivery of its steel, but never nine months. The great consumption of metal in the manufacture of war munitions is responsible for the present condition.

E. T. C. FIRST MEETING.

The first of the series of the 1915-1916 season entertainments of the Electro-Technic club will be given tomorrow night at the auditorium at the Electric works. E. A. Wagner, chairman of the entertainment committee, has arranged a good program, which will include a five reel moving picture show, one of the Panama canal, another dealing with railroads and the other three of a comic character. Frank Goetz' mandolin club will give several selections and there will be other features of interest.

PASSED ON EMME APPLICATION.

Dr. J. M. Kells, of Columbus; Dr. R. F. Price, of Terre Haute; and Dr. J. T. Foster, of Richmond, all of the Pennsylvania Southwest system, passed favorably upon the application of William Emme, the cabinetmaker, of this city, for admission to the pension system last Saturday afternoon. The meeting was held in the office of Dr. J. E. Bickel.

A misdirected blow with a heavy hammer sent the tool against Machinist John Panyard, of the Nickel Plate shops, Saturday night, breaking the bridge of his nose and bruising the flesh badly. He is off duty as a result of the accident.

Shlah, formerly engineer of maintenance of way of the Decatur division, has been appointed engineer of maintenance of way of the Springfield division, with headquarters at Springfield, Ill.

William B. Swann, the Wabash fireman who was severely scalded in a wreck at West Unity, Ohio, last winter, is now able to be out on the streets at Peru, after being in the hospital over nine months. He walks with the aid of crutches, but it is believed he will recover eventually. Engineer Huffman, who was scalded in the same accident, has recovered and resumed work on the road.

The marriage of Owen O. Vaughn and Miss Edna Hamilton, at Kalamazoo, Mich., April 20, is announced by the couple. Mr. Vaughn is a draftsman, employed at the Pennsylvania shops, and Mrs. Vaughn was employed as a clerk at the office of S. F. Bowser & Co. Each is popular with acquaintances and news of the wedding will be received with pleasing surprise.

Road Foreman of Engines A. L. Lophore, of the G. R. & I., and Mrs. Lophore, attended the funeral of their niece, Mrs. E. S. Hasenmeyer, at Tiffin, Ohio, today. Other Fort Wayne people who attended the funeral were Mr. and Mrs. N. H. Crawford, A. H. Lophore, Jacob Lehman, Al Knowlton, Noble and Hugh McFadden. F. G. Duryee, of the Fort Wayne Electric works, another relative, was unable to attend the funeral on account of the death of his father, George Duryee, at Hilledale. Mrs. Hasenmeyer was formerly Miss Irma Knowlton, of this city.

ANOTHER TRIP TO FARM FOR BRENNAN

Booze-Fighting Dick Has Been Back a Month and Due Again.

After Dick Brennan had pleaded guilty in the city court, Monday morning, to a drunk charge, Judge Kerr told him he was due to go right back to the penal farm for another and a longer stay. Dick returned two or three weeks ago, either kept straight or dodged the cops until Saturday morning and then ran afoul of Officer Paul. He was well piped and went to a cell. He begged for mercy Monday morning, but Judge Kerr continued the case until Tuesday, when there would be more time to dispose of him.

Another Chance for May. May Boiter, who comes and goes with the regularity of a new moon, was in again on a drunk charge. She pleaded guilty and with vast assumption of nonchalance perused a newspaper while she stood up and Officer Erdman gave testimony that she was "very drunk" when he arrested her late Saturday afternoon. She was still deeply engrossed in the intelligence of the day as Judge Kerr gave her a lecture, but got back to earth sufficiently to deny that she had been before him "fifteen or twenty times," as the court had declared. She said she hadn't been arrested for five months. Judge Kerr said he was going to give her a last chance and turned her loose.

Abused His Mother. Joe Lager, charged with drunkenness, was accused of violently mistreating his aged mother at her home, 220 West Jefferson street, Saturday night. He admitted he had been drunk, blamed his sister for the trouble at home and denied any knowledge of abusing his mother. Officer Madden testified that the aged woman was on the street at 1 o'clock Sunday morning and bore the marks of mistreatment. The case was continued until Tuesday morning and Lager went to jail to wait.

Other City Court Cases. Martin Jackson, a loiterer, who had been about the city soliciting help, was turned loose to get at once out of town. He is well dressed and says he has been expecting a check from his folks in Springfield, Ill.

H. V. Blosser was fined $25 and costs for speeding his automobile on Spr Run avenue. He was sent to the station by Motorcycle Officer Kintz, who "clocked" him.

T. S. Streibig, a jitney driver, whose lights have not been on the job for several nights and was arrested Sunday night by Officer Collins, was given a chance to get them fixed. Otherwise he will be fined.

Drunks were thus disposed of: Frank Duffy, $1 and costs; Pat Murphy, continued to the 22nd inst.; Joe McGinnis, $1 and costs; Henry Kruse, $1 and costs; William Kirby, $1 and costs; John Allen and Martin Aust, turned loose.

Ernest Bowman, charged with child neglect, was continued until November 18 on his own recognizance, promising to give his wife $4 a week.

Ed Bailey, charged with disorderly conduct, was allowed to go on an indefinite continuance.

The case against Charles Holthouse, charged with uttering worthless checks, was continued until Wednesday and he went back to jail for want of $1,000 bond.

STOLEN MAIL SACK FOUND.

Returned to Gaston Postoffice From Which It Was Taken in June, 1914. Gaston, Ind., Oct. 16.—A mail sack, which was stolen from the postoffice here was robbed, June 16, 1914, was found under the Allen schoolhouse, in Madison county, near Summitville. Some money order forms were in it when found, and the outfit was turned over to the postmaster at Summitville, who was instructed by the postoffice department to return the sack to Gaston. The burglars are thought to have used the sack to carry off their booty, and then hid the sack and order form at the schoolhouse. Five or six hundred dollars were taken in stamps and money, and a 3,000-pound safe was completely wrecked by explosives.

In Japan tea leaves are often ground into powder before use.

Furlong was at first a furrow long, or the distance that a pair of oxen would plow in half an hour.

Mulberry leaves preserved by cold storage have been proved quite as nourishing and effective to silkworms as fresh leaves.

HERE'S HOW THEY LOOK WITHOUT 'EM—THESE FIVE HEADS OF GREAT NATIONS NOW AT WAR.

Clothes may make a man, but a moustache makes a king. If you don't believe it, take a good look at the faces above—from left to right, President Poincaré, of France,

Czar Nicholas of Russia, Emperor Yo-hito of Japan, Kaiser Wilhelm and King Edward. Each of them wears a moustache and, in fact, their moustaches are the most below and put them back where they belong. Just how they look without 'em is shown in this picture. And, if you like, you may cut out the moustaches and put them back where they belong. By the way, note also, how much the Kaiser, with a shave, resembles King Albert of Belgium. Anyway, meet them without 'em!

Save Enough Per Week In Fuel to Pay for a Peninsular on Credit

These Facts About the Peninsular Base-Burner Will Assist You in the Selection of Your Stove

The first cost should be the last consideration in the purchase of a stove that is guaranteed by America's most progressive stove makers to give greater heat at a smaller fuel cost than any other, because the saving in fuel soon reimburses you for the slight extra cost for this high-grade base-burner; and the genuine comfort and satisfaction derived from the use of the Peninsular cannot be figured in dollars and cents. These are absolute facts which we can prove to you. A base-burner to be efficient must have a sufficient amount of radiation. The greater it is the better the heater. That's why the Peninsular produces more heat from the same or less amount of fuel than any other stove.

NEW SONG WITH QUAINT MELODY

Odd Ballad Said to Contain Many Pretty Strains.

New York is ringing with a new song called "Could the Dreams of a Dreamer Come True?" which is quite a craze with the fair sex. It is written by Jeff Brauer, and is on the order of his previous successes, "In the Valley of the Moon" and "Virginia Lee." Although the song is written in only one octave range it possesses a number of quaint harmonies which lend a fascinating effect when sung. Here is a part of the chorus:

Could The Dreams Of A
Dreamer Come True

The song contains quite a number of old rhymes and jingling musical measures used for singing or dancing purposes. The chief merit of the ballad is its clean sentiment appealing to the home and parlor.

Sample copies of the song were received in this city yesterday in some of the ten cent stores.

INDIANA MAN ON JOB
AS GUIDE AT CAPITOL

"Bill" Jones Making Good
in Coveted Position at Washington.

Washington, Oct. 18.—Indiana has one place on the force of guides at the United States capital, which is not so bad when the guide force is limited to twelve men. Positions as guides at the nation's capital are not classified in common parlance in that definition "political work" though they are eagerly sought after and there always is an anxious waiting list. As long as the memory of the oldest inhabitant runs the guide force has consisted of twelve men no women have ever served in that capacity. Six of the members are selected by the sergeant at arms of the house and six by the sergeant at arms of the senate. When a vacancy occurs it is filled by the sergeant at arms who appointed the retiring member. In the absence of any rule by which these places might be apportioned, appointments come through winning the favor of the sergeant at arms of one body or the other. Kentucky is the only state that has double representation on the force—a condition resulting from the double-headed activities of Senator James at one end of the capital and Representative Arthur B. Rouse at the other.

Don't overrate your own shrewdness. You may know a lot but there's still a lot to learn.

The Savings Bank system is a human race.

No better, safer, easier way of Saving Money has ever been devised.
Four per cent at

German-American National Bank

due to the activity of Representative Charles Lieb, of the First district, who has a keen scent for jobs where others are utterly unable to locate them. It was Representative Lieb, who induced Sergeant at Arms Bob Gordon to appoint W. H. Jones, of Hatfield, Ind., on the guide force, and now both Gordon and Lieb are glad of it, for Jones has made good at a sixty-horse power rate every day he has been on the force.

Everybody in Spencer county knows Bill Jones, as he is called by the home folk. Likewise the name of Bill Jones has resounded for many years in other counties of the pocket, especially along about campaign time, for Bill has been a mighty clever performer and quick on the trigger when it came to putting across a handsome political stunt for some friend of the Democratic party as an abstract proposition.

He was born in a log cabin not very far from the cabin in which Abraham Lincoln lived as a boy. This gave him
the right start for a successful career.
When he was a young man he taught school, and then for fifteen or sixteen years, he was in the grain business. Being always of a studious frame of mind, and a great reader, he brought to the duties of capital guide a much better mental equipment than is ordinarily possessed by a member of the force.
Before he set foot in Washington, a few years ago, he had a wide fund of information concerning the United States capital, the special events of history of which it has been the theater, and the great men who have made their mark there. Coupled with his knowledge of the building and the history that clusters around it, Jones has a pleasing manner of speech and a flow of language equal to every occasion.
The capital has an intense fascination
for him, and he has had stereoscopic views prepared of its most interesting features for the entertainment of the people back home on his occasional vacations.

Not on Pay Roll.

Contrary to a somewhat general belief, the guides are not on the government pay rolls. All they make for their services belongs to them. Every night the earnings of the day are put into as common pot, divided into twelve equal parts, and each guide takes his share.
They have their captain, who has headquarters in the capital rotunda. That is the one place about the capital where visitors are certain to come. The captain solicits visitors and assigns guides to conduct the various parties about the building. In the evening the captain divides the income of the day. At 5 o'clock every morning the guides begin work and they "knock off" at 4:30
p. m.

On certain Sundays, as well as on week days, the capital is open to visitors. There is a fixed schedule of charges for showing visitors over the building, which is 25 cents an individual, except in the case of schools, for which a special charge of 10 cents each person is made. Visitors are most numerous in April and May, when the schools come, but the guides will tell you that their best money making months are August and October, when the tourists mainly are subject to the 25-cent rate. The guides dread to see winter come, for while the capital is often thronged with fashionable society women in that season, they generally depend on having members of the congress show them around and ignore the guides.

SWEDEN IS CUTTING DOWN ITS BOOZE BILL

Steady and Systematic Curtailment in Liquor Sales
Since War.

Stockholm, Sweden, Sept. 30.—(Correspondence of The Associated Press).
Although nothing so drastic as the prohibition measures of Russia has been attempted in Sweden, there has been,
since the beginning of the war, a steady
and systematic curtailment in the sale of liquor, which is approvingly regarded by temperance advocates as a decided step toward absolute prohibition. The "Stockholm system" of allowing each citizen only a fixed quantity of spirituous drink, which was inaugurated just after the war started, has now been extended to thirty-one of the hundred districts in Sweden, and according to a government order recently issued, will,
after the first of January, 1916, apply to the whole of Sweden.

The "Stockholm system," which allows every citizen in good standing in the city to become a moderate drinker, while effectively preventing him from becoming a drunkard, was ingeniously devised by Dr. Ivan Bratt, present director of the system, after all other expedients had failed. Dr. Bratt has been lauded, condemned, idolized, and ridiculed, and his work has become the theme of almost daily discussion in the newspapers of Sweden, some of which criticize him for being too moderate and others too extreme in his reforms. But on one point they all are agreed. The system works.

In the first place, the liquor communes, while directed by private individuals, were practically made government concerns, for all profits were to go to the government. This removed any incentive on the part of the directors to over-production. It was followed by a careful supervision of the supply of liquor furnished to hotels, restaurants and public bars. These places still had a right to as much liquor as they required, but they were only allowed profit on a reasonable amount of trade. If they did business in excess of that amount fixed by the government, they had to purchase this additional supply at retail price, and were forced to sell at the same prices. This, it would seem, would remove the zealous effort of hotel proprietors to make their liquor trade as large as possible.

But none of these expedients was successful. The total consumption of liquor was scarcely diminished. The amount of drunkenness in Sweden showed no decrease, and hospitals and medical records were as full of alcoholic patients and cases of illness caused by alcoholism as before. It was evident that the decrease in the amount of liquor sold at hotels and bars was offset by the increased business done at wine stores, where customers bought as much bottled spirits as they liked and took it home for consumption.

The "book system," which is now in operation, was devised by Dr. Bratt at the beginning of the war. It allowed every citizen in good standing to buy one litre and no more of spirituous liquor every five days. To make this plan feasible, each person was provided with a small book resembling a commu-

tation railroad ticket, from which a compound was torn every time the consumer bought his litre of whiskey, brandy, cognac, punch, schnapps, or whatever
kind of alcoholic beverage he fancied.
At the same time, his book was stamped with the date of the purchase so that it would be clear to the dealer when he made his last purchase. Without showing his book, no citizen of Stockholm, has the remotest chance of obtaining a bottle of liquor anywhere in the city. The regulation is rigidly enforced.

It is true that in some cases, however, exceptions are made. If one can persuade the authorities that on account of his social position and the demands of constant entertainment one litre every five days is totally inadequate, and if the authorities are convinced that such a person can be trusted with more liquor without abusing the privilege conferred upon him, he is then given a special license to purchase two, three or more litres, according to the circumstances. On the other hand, if the person is a notorious drunkard,
has a police record, or has in any way
incurred the displeasure of the authorities, he is allowed no liquor at all. For purposes of ascertaining the standing of the citizens in the community, an elaborate card catalogue system is maintained at the central bureau and all questions of allowing any person more or less than the ordinary amount of liquor are referred to this.

The results of this system are already remarkable. In 1914, the total consumption of spirituous liquors was only 2,976,682 litres, compared with 5,004,642 litres for the year before.
The decrease in 1915 has been even more marked.

officers returned to headquarters with the pair, whose whereabouts for five days had been causing a sensation. The greeting of mother and daughter was affectionate when they met at the police station.

"They'll have to show me that Luther isn't all right before I'll believe anything against him," the girl declared.

At 2 o'clock Mrs. Youse, Beulah and some of their friends left the station to go to consult lawyers as Warren had strongly urged them to do.

Fought Against Photographers.
Mrs. Youse-Warren had tremendous difficulty getting out of the Barr street door of police headquarters and across the street to a waiting automobile. Newspaper photographers with cameras were waiting and she tried two or three times to get out, but her mother dragged her back within the vestibule.

"Let me go; mind your business," the young bride suddenly exclaimed to her mother, and muffled her face closely in her black fur wrap she darted across the street and into the car, climbing into the rear seat and screening herself behind others in the seat and keeping her furs close about her face.

Arrest in Allen County, He Says.
"My name is Charles Luther Warren, I am 32 years old, my home is in Toledo, I am a mechanical draughtsman, I was born in Conroy, Ohio, and I was reared near Monroeville and William and other men in the May family of this county are my uncles. I have known Mrs. Youse for fifteen years or more."

"How long have I known Beulah? Well, now, just leave Beulah out of this. Beulah's my wife. I don't care what you say about her mother, but just leave my wife out of this. I won't tell you when we became engaged or anything about that. Just cut her out."

And for the time, at least, Warren stuck to his resolution to discuss nothing that bore personally upon his bride. Again he repeated that he would make good anything he had done in Fort Wayne, but would not answer a question as to whether checks he had deposited in Fort Wayne and in Chicago were good.

Find Chicago Pass Book.
When Officer Jones took Warren and his wife into custody at Valparaiso he saw Warren slip some books from his handbag and pass them to his wife, who concealed them in the bosom of her dress. These were taken from her here and found to be a pass book and check book issued Warren by the Continental and Commercial National bank in Chicago. The pass book had a credit entry of $4,400. It was on this deposit that Warren is said to have been able to check out $50 in Chicago.

Warren stated at headquarters that he was well acquainted with the Chicago jeweler and the president of the Continental and Commercial bank, but he refused to give their names, trying to laugh off a question bearing on these details.

Were at Railway Station.
Warren and his wife were at the Pennsylvania railway depot in Valparaiso at 9 o'clock Monday morning when Officer Jones happened to get off a Pennsylvania train there. He had been on the lookout for the pair since last Thursday, and recognized them at once. He watched them for a short time, to see what they might do. The pair walked around the station and then started up the city. Officer Jones got the ticket seller to keep an eye on the pair and he telephoned to the sheriff's office. Then he arrested the pair.

"Is this Mr. Warren?" asked the officer of the man.
Warren was silent and to another question of the same tenor said:
"Who are you that you want to know?" parried Warren.

"Are you Beulah Youse-Warren of Fort Wayne?" the officer queried of the young woman.
"Yes, I am," she replied after looking questioning at her husband.

"Then you both will have to come with me; we are going back to Fort Wayne," replied the officer.
"What's wrong; what have you done to us we are under arrest?" the young wife demanded of Warren.

"Nothing, dearie; everything is all right, honest. If there's anything wrong I'll explain it all and fix it up in Fort Wayne," said Warren reassuringly.

Very Loyal on the Train.
Officer Jones says that Warren was very loving and devoted to his wife on the train and attracted some attention. Mrs. Warren at the time of their being taken into custody and several times during the trip home was on the verge of collapse and Officer Jones had to employ his best endeavors to reassure her to keep her from fainting. Warren was nervous and palpably worried during the journey to Fort Wayne.

When they embarked on the train Captain Henry C. Smith, commander of the Pennsylvania police, whose efforts had resulted in the capture of Warren, was at the station to receive the pair, assisted by Lieutenant Clark.

Captain Stoll took the young bride in charge and Lieutenant Clark her husband. As they came down the stairs from the train platform Warren insisted on taking his wife in charge.

The young wife, whose honeymoon had come to a sudden and painful end, was showing the effects of the terrible ordeal. Her face was drawn and she showed evidence of having wept. Warren himself was pale and ill at ease.

As they approached the police automobile containing Officers Walter Kavanaugh and Frank Hartzell and a battery of newspaper cameras were leveled at them Warren drew his hat over his face and told his wife to conceal her own features. He did his best to protect his bride from the photographers.

Said He Was Wealthy.
After Officer Jones had taken the Warrens into custody at Valparaiso Warren told the officer that he had done, "I'll law with 'em to the end of time if they try to do anything to me. I own five big farms that are worth $100,000 and that ain't all I've got," he boasted.

ENTIRE DAY TAKEN TO OUTLINE CASE

Prosecution Makes Extended Statement in New Haven Rail Prosecution.

New York, Oct. 18.—The jurors chosen to try Wm. Rockefeller, Lewis Cass Ledyard, Edward D. Robbins and eight other directors or former directors of the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad charged with conspiracy to monopolize inter-state commerce under the Sherman law took their seats in the federal court today to hear the opening address of R. L. Batts, attorney for the government.

Mr. Batts expected to occupy the whole day in telling the jury what the government intended to prove. He planned to outline the case in chronological order, beginning in 1890, the date of the enactment of the Sherman act, and tracing the various transactions under which formerly independent railroads, trolley lines and steamship companies in New England were brought into the new Haven fold.

Before Mr. Batts began Assistant District Attorney Stevenson read to the jury the text of the indictment. He also read the text of the Sherman act. This Mr. Batts, on taking the floor, first explained to the jury.

Said They Were Returning.
Warren stated that he and his bride were about to return to Fort Wayne, when apprehended at the Pennsylvania station in Valparaiso, and that he had purchased tickets. Part of this statement is not true. The tickets were purchased after they had been taken into custody.

Following their detention by Officer Jones a deputy sheriff came to the station. When Warren found that the deputy was to return with Officer Jones he would be thrown into the jail at Valparaiso, he consented to come back.

Warren declared at headquarters that since Mrs. Youse left himself and Beulah at the Pennsylvania station in Valparaiso, a few hours later, after Warren and Beulah had been married in Michigan City, he and his bride had been stopping at a private house in Valparaiso. He said that they chose a private house because the hotels were all crowded and could not give them accommodations.

Left Fort Wayne Wednesday.
Warren, accompanied by Mrs. Youse and her daughter, left Fort Wayne last Wednesday morning at 7 o'clock over the Pennsylvania, going to Chicago, where they remained until Friday morning, when they went to Michigan City, Ind., where Warren and the young woman were married by Rev. O. L. Kiplinger, chaplain of the state prison.

Later in the day the trio went to Mrs. Youse's home, where Warren took a Pennsylvania train for Fort Wayne, arriving at 8:45 Friday evening. Since then she had heard nothing from either Warren or Beulah until late Monday forenoon, when informed of the apprehension of the couple in Valparaiso.

Both statements indicate that a fight to the finish is to be waged, greatly to the inconvenience and discomfort of the public.

Total Contributions.
The total contributions up to the present time amount to $2,051.85. At the regular meeting of the Ice Drivers' and Helpers' union, Sunday afternoon, a resolution was passed assessing each member twenty-five cents a week until the strike is over. Twenty-five dollars were voted by the union stage employees Sunday and the weekly assessment of fifteen cents per member was agreed to. The jitney drivers are also contributing. The total payroll lost Friday amounted to $1,563.

Twenty thousand tags are now being printed by cigarmakers' local union, No. 37, bearing the following words: "Don't be a piker. Walk or ride a jitney. Push this label. Smoke Fort Wayne Made Cigars."

More Bricks Thrown.
More bricks were hurled Saturday night. Two cars were attacked, but no damage was done. Kenneth Ewers, 18 years old, 2841 Maunee avenue, was arrested on a charge of disorderly conduct, being accused of throwing a brick that struck the body of a car No. 180, on the East Lewis street line, at Lewis street and Grant avenue. Rocks were also thrown at car No. 200, eastbound on the West Main street line, but all fell below the window line.

Membership buttons were received Saturday afternoon by the car men from international headquarters. They are round, of celluloid and are white with a blue background. New buttons are issued each month, as the member pays his dues. Small pads also were furnished each man on which to dot down anything they see for the benefit of the strikers.

Car Crew Held at Bay.
"Wait a minute, partner, until I can get out of your way," yelled S. L. Sheets, of the Sheets Construction company, to Motorman Dan Smith, when his automobile went "dead" on the track at Walton and East Creighton avenues Saturday night at 7:20 o'clock. But Sheets says that the motorman did not wait, but instead deliberately ran the car into the automobile. Sheets' son was cranking the machine at the time and Mr. Sheets, realizing the seriousness of the situation, jumped out over the windshield, grabbed the boy from the front of the car, probably saving his life. Mrs. Sheets, who was in the rear seat, was so badly frightened that it was necessary to call a physician.

With an automobile Jack Sheets defied the three men comprising the crew of the car and would not permit them to leave until the arrival of the police. Motorcycle Officer John Lynch took the statements of the crew and of Mr. Sheets and the car was permitted to continue its trip. The lights and steering gear on the automobile were broken, but no other damage was done.

FIND HOME IN RUINS.

Winamee, Ind., Oct. 16.—The home of W. S. Huddleston, president of the First National bank, was destroyed by fire last night. Mr. and Mrs. Huddleston were at Indianapolis attending the bankers' meeting. They returned today to find their home in ruins. The fire started from electric wires. The loss of $5,000 is covered by insurance.

An employee of the electric light company climbed a pole to cut the wires. The pole fell on him, breaking his ribs and otherwise injuring him. He is in a serious condition.

The lecture, while enumerating the causes of the war, the issues at stake and the probable outcome as seen by the German nation, is a plea for genuine American neutrality by an American toward none, with charity for all.

fire between the trenches in the vicinity of Nomeny. On artillery fire dispersed groups of pioneers of the enemy, particularly to the east of Epy and near Greembey and Bioncourt, and it has also bombarded the railroad station at Bioncourt.

BULGARIAN TOWN IS TAKEN.

Serbian and Anglo-French Troops Occupy Strumitza.

London, Oct. 18.—Serbian and Anglo-French troops have occupied the Bulgarian town of Strumitza, fifty miles north of Salonika, according to official telegrams from Athens. This follows closely upon news that Serbians with allied assistance have repulsed a Bulgarian attack at Vildovo, turning the advance of the Bulgars into a retreat beyond their own borders.

Thus the Anglo-French-Serbian action in the Balkans has leaped out of the field of surmise into a vivid foreground of fact and is asserted by London military observers to have been crowned at the outset with success.

This arrival of French troops at the psychological moment when the Serbians' struggle with 40,000 newly arrived Bulgarians at Vildovo still hung in the balance, has dramatic qualities which for the moment have completely eclipsed the military exploits in other theaters. The chief military importance of the allied Serbian success is the defeat of the Bulgarian project of cutting the Salonika-Nish railroad, which is known to have been the Bulgarian objective. It is not clear whether British troops co-operated with the French in this operation, but a message from Athens stating they had left Salonika Saturday for the Serbo-Bulgarian frontier indicates they at least were near the scene of the fighting.

Russian and Italian help thus far has been only indirectly exerted by increased aggressiveness against the Austro-Germans, which makes a further deflection of Teutonic forces to the Balkans impracticable.

In the eastern theater the Germans again are attacking the Russian positions southeast of Riga, but Petrograd commentators regard this to be purely a demonstration calculated to distract attention from the Dvinsk region and Galicia which have gained greatly in importance with the Balkan developments. It is clear that although the battle which Gen. Lomoff is fighting in Galicia with varying success, the Germans have been unable to establish themselves on the eastern bank of the river Serica.

With intense artillery fire continuing on both sides of the Chammagne region, the French war office reports slight progress. A strong barricade to the southeast of Neuville has been captured and the Germanic wood positions have been consolidated.

The United States and other countries owe without representatives in Mexico City, were to forward recognition by presenting a note to Gen. Carranza through Eliso Arredondo, his representative here.

A statement on conditions in Mexico based upon a report from General Alvaro Obregon and given out by Eliso Arredondo declared that the only opposition to the Carranza government was confined to portions of the states of Sonora and Chihuahua, adding that an expedition had been sent to Sonora to assist constitutional forces in smothering the Maytorena army. The statement also announces the surrender of many former Villista officers.

Carranza reports today say Toluca, near Mexico City, has been taken from Zapata forces, that nearly the entire state of Chihuahua is completely controlled by Carranza troops, that Juarez is cut off from the interior and that many troops in the north are arming against attack by Villa forces. It was reported that before evacuating Parru Villa troops sacked the city. Food supplies in large quantities were said to be arriving in Mexico City. One dispatch reported the defeat of Rafael Buelna, a Villa leader, on the west coast, whose force at Tepic fled to the mountains.

Gen. Carranza's war office has moved from Vera Cruz to Mexico City.

FLOUR PRICES GO UP TWENTY CENTS

Following a steady rise in the price of wheat on the local markets for the past week and a small gain Monday morning, one miller has marked the selling price of his flour up to 20c on a barrel. The paying price for wheat today was $1.10 a bushel although one miller kept his price at $1.08.

Not a single load of new corn has appeared on the street market this fall but the city scalemaster and grain dealers are keeping wide awake watch for the first arrival. It is still some weeks before new corn begins to arrive in earnest, but a stray load is expected to arrive at almost any time.

The receipts at the city scales were rather light today, consisting of eighteen loads of hay, one load of corn and two loads of oats. Prices were about the same as Saturday, although only 72c was offered for the one load of corn. Hay prices ranged from $11 to $15 a ton. All other market quotations remained unchanged.

CHICAGO GRAIN AND PROVISIONS.

Chicago, Oct. 18.—Wheat prices underwent a setback today owing to unresponsive cables, larger receipts northwest and a forecast of favorable weather. After opening 1/4c to 3/4c lower, the market rallied a little, but then suffered a decided break. Initial quotations were $1.08 to $1.09 1/2 for December and $1.08 to $1.09 1/4 for May.
The close was unsettled, 2 1/2c to 2 3/4c net lower.
Corn gave way with wheat. Prices opened 1/4c to 1/2c lower and were followed by a moderate additional down turn.
The close was steady at 1/2c to 1 1/4c net decline.
Traders in oats took their cue from the action of other grain.
Higher prices for hogs tended to lift provisions.

THE DAY ON WALL STREET.

New York, Oct. 18.—Firmness marked the resumption of trading today with some very substantial gains, particularly in specialties. Foundation was given to the movement by the strength of United States Steel, which opened with an exchange of 5,000 shares at 83 1/2, an advance of 3/4. Westinghouse made an initial offering of 3,000 shares at 70 1/2 to 71, a maximum advance of 1 1/4. American Smelting, American Car, Baldwin Locomotive and Crucible Steel were materially higher. Canadian Pacific and Harriman led the rally.
Dealings were moderate during the forenoon but specialties added to the previous gains with these new records. Bethlehem Steel 11 to 45, Willys-Overland 10 to 25, and United States Industrial Alcohol 1 1/2 to 10 1/2. Other pronounced gains included Bethlehem preferred 8 to 17, General Motors 10 to 37, Studebaker 4 1/2 to 16 1/2, Virginia Iron, Coal and Coke 8 1/2 to 6 1/2, and Westinghouse 2 1/2 to 3 1/2. Incidentally U. S. extended its rise. Later the Bethlehem common reached 42 and Baldwin showed a loss. Bonds were firm.
Steel's further advance to above 85 1/2 was the chief development of the day, with increased strength in other industrials. The closing was strong.
